Burning of Steamer Golden City at Memphis This Morning.

Nearly Fifty Lives Lost in the Terrible Holocaust.

Thirty-two Ladies on Board, of Whom Thirty Perished in the Flames.

Men, Women and Children Doomed to Death on the Burning Boat.

Names of the Victims—Those Who Escaped the Flames—Details of the Horrible Disaster.

MEMPHIS, TENN., March 30.—The Cincinnati and New Orleans packet Golden City, en route from New Orleans to Cincinnati, burned at the wharf this morning at 4:30 o'clock. Between thirty and fifty lives were lost, principally women and children.

Details of the Holocaust.

MEMPHIS, TENN., March 30.—The steamer Golden City, of the Southern Transportation Company's line, when approaching the wharf this morning at 4:30 o'clock, was discovered on fire by the second engineer, Robt. Kelly, who immediately notified Captain Brice Purcell, Sr., the pilot on watch. The boat's bow was at once headed for the shore and in four minutes afterwards she touched the wharf at the foot of Beale street, where the coal fleet is moored. A line was hastily thrown and made fast to one of the coal barges, but, the current being swift, it soon parted, and the a mass of flames, with many of her passengers and crew aboard, who were unable to reach the shore and were lost. The Golden City left New Orleans last Saturday en route to Cincinnati. She carried a crew of about sixty. She had aboard forty cabin passengers, fifteen of whom were ladies, and nine children. Her cargo consisted of 300 tons, among which was a lot of jute.

BURNING STEAMER FLOATED ON DOWN THE RIVER,

THE FIRE

is said to have had its origin in this combustible material.

THE LOST.

Among those known to have been lost are Dr. Monahan and wife, Jackson, O.; Mrs. Crary, Cincinnati; Miss Luella Crary, Cincinnati; W. H. Stowe, wife and two children; Ollie Wood and wife, Henderson, Ky.; Mrs. Annie Smith, Massachusetts; Miss Campbell, Mrs. Helen Percival, Mrs. L. E. Kouns and three children. The books of the steamer were lost, so it is IMPOSSIBLE TO GATHER A COMPLETE LIST OF THE LOST

and saved. All the officers of the steamer are safe except the second engineer, Robert Kelly. He it was who first discovered the fire and gave the alarm. He remained at his post of duty until cut off by the flames, for the fire spread like lightning, and

HE SACRIFICED HIS LIFE TO SAVE OTHERS.

The saved, so far as known, are Capt. S. C. McIntyre, First Clerk W. F. McIntyre, Second Clerk James Wirthlin, Third Clerk Frank Stein, Mate Dock Bondurant, Pilots Brice Purcell, Sr., Marion Purcell and Joseph Purcell, Jr., First Engineer Mike Kelly; Miss Ionia Masdon, Hawesville, Ky.; Willie McKinley, Hawesville, Ky.; James Meyers, New Orleans; Charles Ross, Jr., E. C. Underwood, St. Louis; H. B. Hamell, Philadelphia; Robert E. Elibrick, treasurer of Stowe's Circus; John H. Trewalla, business agent; Burt Stowe, brother to the proprietor; Frank Stowe, James Swift, John Filbert, John Mullane, J. C. Kempel, Jno. G. Glenroy, James Bloomfield, James Burke, all members of Stowe's circus; W. C. Jewett, Point Pleasant, West Virginia; George W. Green, New Richmond, Ohio; A. B. Veatch, Evansville, Ind.; R. H. Chittenden, Carrsville, Ky.; W. H. Caruthers, J. B. Jordan, Ripley, Tenn. Nearly all the cabin and deck crew of the steamer saved themselves. Stowe's circus was taken aboard at Vidalia, Louisiana, and six cages of animals and birds, together with the ticket and band wagon, TENTS AND HORSES, WERE LOST.

Marion Purcell, one of the pilots, was in the clerk's office when the alarm first sounded, and he rushed through the cabin, bursting in the state-room doors and awakening the passengers.

SO RAPID DID THE FLAMES SPREAD

that within five minutes after discovering the fire, which broke out amidships, the aft part of the steamer was all ablaze. Those that were saved had to flee in their night-clothes. When the burning steamer touched the wharf

THE TRAIN-ROBBERS.

Trial of Bugler Recommenced—Dick Little Turns State's Evidence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDEPENDENCE, MO., March 30.—The trial of John Bugler, the Blue Cut train robber, recommenced this morning and the jury is now being empaneled, but the taking of the testimony will not be commenced before late this evening or tomorrow morning. The most intense excitement now prevails on account of a well authenticated rumor that Dick Little, one of the ringleaders of Jesse James' notorious band, is here on parole and will be used as a witness for the State. The fact is that Little several weeks ago surrendered himself to the Sheriff of Clay county, upon being assured by Gov. Crittenden that he should receive full immunity if a clean breast was made and members of the gang now on trial convicted. The Sheriff of Clay county delivered him over to Jackson county officers, and he has been closely concealed in Kansas City and his presence kept a profound secret ever since. When he gave himself up he made a full confession and gave the names of all the participants in the Gad's Hill, Otterville, Glendale and Blue Cut train robberies, and it was upon this statement that C. Hite was arrested in Tennessee several weeks ago and sent to the penitentiary from Gallatin, Mo., for twenty-five years, for the Winston train robbery. Little also says he killed Wood Hite, another of the James gang, in Ray county, immediately after the Blue Cut robbery. An attempt was made to interview the officers of the court in regard to Little's presence today, but no satisfaction was given. A subpœna has however been issued for him and he will undoubtedly testify in the case. The court-room is now crowded to overflowing. It is with difficulty that the excitement can be restrained.

SURRENDERED.

CHICAGO, March 30.—An Independence, Mo., special says: It looks as if the career of the James boys was drawing to a close. Their comrades are fast being brought to justice. The excitement is intense here because the notorious Dick Little surrendered at Kansas City and is alleged to have made a full confession of all the crimes of the gang for the past seven years, including the train robbery. Little surrendered through the influence of his wife and for a few weeks past has been assisting in arrangements for the capture of the remainder of the gang. His confession is said to contain startling facts.

A NOTED CASE.

The Suit of Cupples Against Fallis & Lichliter Decided.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARTHAGE, MO., March 30.—In the Circuit Court in the case of Samuel Cupples vs. Fallis & Lichliter the jury returned a verdict to-day for the plaintiff against Lichliter and for defendant W. H. Fallis.

Rev. Mr. Coombs, of Providence, R. I., conducted public service in the new Congregational Church.

Changed the Route.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 30.—A special from Winnipeg states that the Canadian Government, acting at the request of the Canadian Pacific Road, will apply to Parliament for power to change the route of the line through the Rockies. The company has selected the Kicking Horse instead of the Yellow Head Pass, the former being much more easy of access.

Indications.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—For Tennessee and Ohio Valley—Cooler; northerly winds and fair weather until Friday morning; rising followed by falling barometer. Lower Lake Region—Occasional snow, with partly cloudy and cooler weather; north to west winds; higher barometer; winds shifting to southerly on Friday. Upper Lake Region—Fair weather; rising followed by falling barometer; cold northerly winds shifting on Friday to east and south, with rising temperature. Upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys—Winds shifting to east and south, with rising temperature, falling barometer and fair weather. Lower Mississippi will fall slowly.

THE BLIZZARD OF DEATH.

About Twenty Persons Found Frozen and Dead—Terrible Suffering.

CHICAGO, March 30.—A St. Paul special says: Since the Saturday blizzard scattered reports have been received showing a loss of life on the frontier. The facts are generally concealed, but it is certain there has been much suffering and many deaths. The blizzard extended from Southern Dakota to Manitoba and reports come from all along the railroad lines. One man was found frozen to death on the prairie near St. Vincent and two near Breckenridge. Several isolated families had narrow escapes. A lieutenant, name unknown, starting on a furlough to Fort Sisseton, D. T., died from exposure on Thursday. He was going to Germany. A stage driver named Howard was found dead near Lake Wahba, half a mile from home. Mrs. Long and her ten-year-old son Albert were found dead near Goodwin, D. T. They were going to see a sick neighbor. It is reported twelve land explorers, who started from Aberdeen and Watertown, are missing since Monday and only two of their ponies have been found.

WASHINGTON.

The Search for De Long.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Secretary Hunt has received a cable message from Lieut. Harber at Irkutsk, stating that the owner of the steamer Lena wants a large price for the steamer from June 27 to September 17, with a guarantee against loss. Harber is negotiating for another steamship, and says if they do not take the steamer they will start expeditions to search the coast from the mouth of the Jana to the Lena Delta and from Olenk to the delta when the delta is closed. An officer will search thoroughly with boats having provisions at a depot near Stolberg Rock. No news from Melville. He will take provisions for his parties and continue the search. A steamer is important for thorough work.

Only Lacks the President's Signature.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—In the House, on motion of Mr. Butterworth, the bill reducing the license fees of all steamboat officers, captains, pilots, engineers, etc., from the present figure of five and ten dollars to fifty cents each, was taken up and passed, as adopted by the Senate. The bill only lacks the President's signature to become a law.

Teller Says He Will be Secretary.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Senator Teller told a brother Senator this morning that his name would be sent to the Senate next Monday or Tuesday for Secretary of the Interior. He said he had not expected to be nominated this week.

BEALE TO BE SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

The impression is growing here that Gen. Beale will be made Secretary of the Navy.

Alaska.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The House Committee on Territories will probably report in favor of a government for Alaska without delegates.

The Pond Liquor Tax Bill.

COLUMBUS, O., March 30.—The Pond liquor tax bill passed the Ohio House to-day without amendments and is now a law. It received fifty-six votes, three of which were Democratic.

XLVII. CONGRESS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The bill passed to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to report the amount of claims of the State of Kansas for money expended and indebtedness assumed by the State in suppressing Indian hostilities.

House.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The Senate bill passed amending the statutes relating to license fees of officers of steam vessels.

A resolution was adopted for printing 90,000 copies of the first volume of the census report concerning the population of the country.

Mr. Updegraff, chairman of the committee on laws governing Presidential elections, reported a bill to carry into effect the provisions of the Constitution respecting the selection of President and Vice-President. Ordered printed and recommitted.

The House refused to consider the Utah contested election case and went into committee on the tariff commission bills, and Dunnell addressed the House. He opposed the bill simply and solely on the ground that the present tariff needed revision, and that this Congress had no business to adopt any method which put revision beyond itself. The tariff needed change, modification and revision and it was the duty of this Congress immediately to enter on the work and not indefinitely postpone it by the appointment of a tariff commission.

PHOTOGRAPHED.

The Ex-Governor of South Carolina in the Rogues' Gallery.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Franklin J. Moses, ex-Governor of South Carolina, this morning was photographed for the rogues' gallery at Police Headquarters as a swindler, and by Justice Smith in the Tombs Police Court committed in default of bail for several charges of swindling, the principal of which was that on the 11th inst.

Death in Machinery.

CLEVELAND, O., March 30.—Truman Dunham, president of the Cleveland Linseed Oil Works, an old and honored citizen, was caught in the machinery at the works to-day and was killed. He was alone in the basement, where there was a large belt which runs a grinder. In some unknown way he was caught in the belt and carried into the machinery, and the body shockingly crushed. Deceased had been trustee of the Cleveland Water-works many years.

A Bribed Juror.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, ILL., March 30.—A sensation was created in the Criminal Court this morning by the announcement made by the State's Attorney to the effect that a juryman now in the celebrated Gribler bribery case had himself been guilty of receiving a bribe. All the lawyers withdrew from the case, saying they would not now try the case before the present jury.

Chicago Chips.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 30.—The work of excavating for the foundation of the new Chamber of Commerce building on La Salle street was commenced this morning with 100 men.

Rev. Brooke Hereford denies that he has been called to All Saints Church, New York.

Sabbath Conference.

PITTSBURG, PA., March 30.—The morning session of the International Sabbath Observance Conference was occupied by reading and the discussion of the Rev. J. W. Torrence's paper on the position and duty of the Church and her responsibility and power in the whole matter of the Sabbath.

Killed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, March 30.—Samuel Twine, a six year convict from Cincinnati for burglary, was killed at the Penitentiary. His sleeve caught in the belt, and his body was whirled about the wheel.

A CARGO OF CORPSES.

the fire communicated to the coal fleet and the tug Oriole, which also burned.

As near as can be ascertained there were

THIRTY TWO LADIES ABOARD

the ill-fated steamer, but two of whom, so far as known, were saved. J. H. Cronk, connected with Stowe's Circus, is missing and supposed to be lost. John Devouse, his wife and three children were saved and are at the City Hospital; also Simon Block. Mr. Devouse is slightly burned on the hands. The Golden City was five years old, cost $54,000 and was insured for $30,000 in Cincinnati offices. She was owned by Capt. J. D. Hegler, W. F. McIntyre and T. C. McIntyre. She lies sunk about three miles below here in the chute near the Tennessee shore. When she floated off from the wharf about twenty of her passengers and crew jumped aboard a barge, which floated down stream, but they were rescued by one of the harbor boats, which towed the barge to shore one mile below the city. It is estimated that but at present no additional names can be learned. Robert Kelly, the second engineer, and three roustabouts are the only ones of the boat's crew that are known to be lost. John Dreffer, steward, Peter Dreffer, cook; John Lamb, second cook; Billy Luxford, pastry cook; Mart Whalen, mess-room tender; John Hill, second mate; Charles Harvey, second watchman, and a passenger named Bloomfield, are saved.

THIRTY-FIVE LIVES ARE LOST BY THE DISASTER,

THE FIRE WAS CAUSED by the watchman accidedtally setting fire to a lot of jute which was stored amidships the steamer. She had just whistled to land and the watchman went among the deck passengers to notify them that Memphis was being approached and those that were destined for here must get ashore. The bottom of his lamp dropped in some jute and before the flames could be extinguished, they spread all over the deck of the steamer. Brice Purcell, the pilot, made his escape by climbing over the front of the pilot-house, as the fire was all in the rear of him when the steamer touched the wharf. The tug Oriole did not burn, as first reported, but was sunk by the burning steamer. In making a landing several coal barges and ice boats belonging to Bohlen, Huse & Co., caught on fire and burned. Billy Hodge, pilot on the Dean Adams, saved the cook, who jumped overboard as she floated down stream. All the passengers and crew were kindly cared for by C. B. Galloway, of the Peabody Hotel, who provided them with breakfast.

Pat Haley and Mike O'Donovan, the two firemen who were on watch, say they saw the negro captain of the watch, named Wash, with his lamp in hand, looking for some of the deck crew. It was from his lamp that the fire caught the jute stored in the center of the vessel.

AND AS QUICK AS A FLASH

the flames spread to either side of the stream and up to the cabin. Haley ran up stairs to notify the head engineer, but by the time he reached the hurricane deck the flames had mounted almost to the pilot-house and he was driven back by the fire. He then rang the alarm bell, and seeing the boat was approaching shore, ran down the forward stairs and jumped on board the tug Oriole, just as the Golden City struck her. Seeing the tug was sinking, he sprang aboard the steamer again and made his way to a coal barge lying alongside. Two negro deck hands and a white deck passenger

WERE KILLED

when the tug was struck, as they were caught between the bow of the boat and the side of the tug. Anna Boyd, the colored chambermaid, and her assistant, are both lost. Mike Malloy and Pat Kinney, firemen, were saved; also M. J. Whelan, the second baker. Whelan says he jumped overboard from the stern of the steamer as she floated down the stream. There were about ten men on the fantail of the boat who as when he leaped into the river he saw three men go overboard and drown. Others must have shared the same fate. Felix Lehman, who was a passenger, says there was a merry party aboard, and nearly all the passengers remained up until midnight. They had one or two gentlemen aboard who played the piano, and they entertained the passengers with music and singing. He was awakened by having his stateroom burst in and heard a cry of fire. Seizing his clothes he ran forward and reached the barge just in time, as the next minute the vessel floated down the stream. The body of an elderly white woman was found floating near the wreck, but her identity has not yet been determined. Stowe's Circus was en route to Cairo, where the spring season was to be opened. A portion of the show is at Vicksburg. Will McIntyre, clerk of the boat, says the list of the lost cabin passengers, as well as he can remember, is correct. Mrs. L. E. Kounz and her three children are lost. She was the wife of Capt. Kounz, the well known steamboat owner. Those mentioned as being at the hospital are all injured by the burns, but not seriously. The passengers lost all their clothing. Those that were saved had to flee for their lives without taking time to save their effects. The following colored crew of the steamer were saved: Bob Morris, second steward; Jim Miller, texas tender; Chas. Wilson, cabin boy; Henry White, Bob Wallace, berthmakers; Chas. Guthrie, cabin watchman; Isaac Dixon, shiner; Ranson Watkins; outsider; Jesse Willet, glass tender.

MUST HAVE BEEN DROWNED,

STOWE'S CIRCUS

was lost with six cages of animals. A buffalo swam ashore. The roaring of the animals, the shrieks of women and children amid the floating, burning hell was a terrific scene.

Abel Butler, of Donaldsonville, La., together with his wife and child, made their escape from the burning steamer

IN THEIR NIGHT CLOTHES.

A. B. Veaten, formerly river reporter on the Evansville, Ind., Tribune, was on board. He remained long enough to dress himself before leaving the boat. J. Cronk, owner of the sideshow to the circus, is supposed to be lost. His room-mate, A. N. Ackerman, says he dragged him out of his bed to the foot of the stairs through the smoke, and is satisfied he never arose from where he left him; that fright seemed to have paralyzed him. J. G. Glenroy, one of the saved, resides at Philadelphia, and has for two years been keeper of animals of Stowe's menagerie. He states that he was asleep under one animal cage on the foremost part of the lower deck. When the cry of fire was given he leaped forth, looked about, but saw no fire; then he looked again and saw the entire center of the boat

A MASS OF FLAMES.

As soon as the boat touched the coal fleet he jumped ashore. He saw the officers of the steamer at work making hawsers fast. Then he saw the lines give way and the steamer swung out and drifted down. He saw the cage containing the lion sink down in the middle as the flames enveloped it. He heard no cry from a single beast as the animals burned. Six cages, containing a lion, tiger, two leopards, albino, deer, monkeys and birds, and four horses, also belonging to the circus, were aboard. Three horses were saved. One, the celebrated trick horse Selim, was lost.

Washouts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RENO, NEV., March 30.—There are a number of washouts between Elko and Humboldt Wells. The washouts were caused by the rapid melting of the snow on the mountains about the Humboldt River. In many cases the track has been swept completely away.

Mollie Maguire Sentenced.

PITTSBURG, PA., March 30.—The Chronicle's special from Uniontown, Pa., says that Patrick Dolan, the Mollie Maguire convicted of Maurice Healy's murder, was sentenced at 2 o'clock this afternoon to eleven years in the penitentiary. The case will be taken to the Supreme Court.

The Base Ball Season.

On Saturday afternoon the first game of the long-promised series between the Browns and the Standards will take place at Sportsmen's Park, Grand avenue. The professionals are in steady training this week and will show up in good form. If the weather clerk acts better than he has been doing the attendance will be very large.

A DOMESTIC DRAMA.

Estrangement, Fight for a Child and a Woman in the Case.

The domestic peace heretofore existing between James E. Gillingwater and his wife has been severed, and they no more enjoy the tranquility which is said to be the natural order of things in the married state. Gillingwater attributes his trouble to Mrs. Blodgett, No. 212 North Thirteenth street. Before the advent of Mrs. Blodgett all had been peace and happiness between them. His wife now ignored him; so he thought, as he was the protector of his child, a beautiful girl about a year old, he would take possession of it. His wife refused to give it up, so he sued out a writ of habeas corpus, which will be heard in the Criminal Court on Monday next. As a counter-irritant in the matter Mrs. Blodgett swore out a warrant yesterday against Gillingwater, charging him with disturbance of the peace at her house. This will come up in Police Court to-morrow morning. Mrs. Gillingwater states that her husband has failed to support her, and is guilty of conduct unbecoming a true and loving husband, hence the estrangement.

A NEW DEPARTURE.—The Planters' House Restaurant is now prepared to furnish its patrons with breakfast and supper.

Warrant for Embezzlement.

This morning a warrant was sworn out by Christian Peper against the young man, Rudolph Meinecke, who was arrested day before yesterday for the embezzlement of funds he had collected for Peper. The warrant charges the embezzlement of $100, although the amount actually taken is said to be over $600.

WANTED.—Ten good machinery molders at Smith, Beggs & Ranken Machine Works, Main and Exchange streets.

CITY PERSONALS.

W. G. Thomas, Jr., of Albany, N. Y., well known in this city as the proprietor of the coke mines near Alton, is lying ill at the Lindell. His mother arrived this morning.

Jean Berthalon, late chief cook of the Laclede Hotel, will start to-morrow for Las Vegas, New Mexico, to take charge of the cuisine of the new hotel at that point, which is to be run by the S. P. Railway under the auspices of Mr. Clark Frost.

Mr. Sombart, of the Sombart M. & M. Co., Boonville, Mo., was on 'Change to-day. He says the wheat in his section is elegant and in a very forward state, and that if the present weather continues the farmers will be cutting wheat by the latter part of May.

Clark D. Frost will leave the city next Saturday for Las Vegas, N. M., to assume the management of the Montezuma Hotel. He takes with him a large force of employes from this city, including clerks, steward, head waiter and others. The house will be opened about the 15th of April.

A delegation from the Boards of Trade of Montreal, Toronto and Quebec visited the Merchants' Exchange to-day and viewed that busy mart of trade. They were accompanied by several Montreal newspaper men—P. N. Muldoon, of the Post; H. S. Stafford, of the Herald; A. H. Chambers, commercial editor of the Star, and E. Lambert, of the Gazette.

Charged With Grand Larceny.

D. D. Johnson was examined in the Court of Criminal Correction this morning, on the charge of the grand larceny of a sample trunk full of cutlery, belonging to A. J. Jordrn, of No. 423 North Fifth street. Johnson's attorney stated to the court that if the alleged crime was anything it was embezzlement instead of grand larceny. Judge Cady took the matter under advisement until Saturday next, at the same time saying he was inclined to the opinion of the defendant's attorney as to the nature of the crime if any there was.

IN the testimony offered in court yesterday in the divorce suit between Jos. P. Jackson and his wife, Lucy, allegations were made affecting the character of Mrs. M. Parker, of 805 Pine street. This lady requests the statement that the charges made against her by Mrs. Jackson are not true. She rented a room to Mr. Jackson, she says, for which he still owes her $25, which was the only transaction between the parties.

Against a Patent.

BALTIMORE, March 30.—The Corn and Flour Exchange passed resolutions protesting against extending the patent for the unloading grain shovel used at lake ports.

MR. TENNYSON'S NEW SONG.

From the London Times of March 15.

This song [called an "English and Colonial National Song"—Ed.], to be sung to-night by Mr. Santley, at St. James' Hall, and throughout the colonies on the Queen's birthday (published by Boosey, Regent street), runs thus in the first draft, though it has been slightly altered for the sake of singing:

HANDS ALL ROUND.

First pledge our Queen, this solemn night,
Then drink to England every guest:
That man's the best cosmopolite
Who loves his native country best.
May Freedom's oak forever live,
With larger life from day to day:
That man's the true conservative
Who lops the molder'd branch away.
Hands all round! God the traitor's hope confound!
To the great cause of Freedom drink, my friends,
And the great name of England round and round.

To all the loyal hearts who long
To keep our English Empire whole!
To all our noble sons, the strong
New England of the Southern Pole!
To England under Indian skies,
To those dark millions of her realm!
To Canada whom we love and prize,
Whatever statesman hold the helm.
Hands all round! God the traitor's hope confound!
To the great name of England drink, my friends,
And all her glorious colonies round and round.

To all our statesmen so they be
True leaders of the land's desire!
To both our Houses, may they see
Beyond the borough and the shire!
We sailed wherever ship could sail,
We founded many a mighty State.
Pray God our greatness may not fail
Through craven fears of being great.
Hands all round! God the traitor's hope confound!
To the great cause of Freedom drink, my friends,
And the great name of England round and round.

A. TENNYSON.

EDISON'S MOTOR.

From the New York Tribune, 27th.

The bed of Edison's Electric Railway at Menlo Park is as yet unballasted, so that a ride over its two miles of length is productive of unpleasant jerks and bumps. From the building next to the workshop at Menlo Park, where the steam engine and dynamo-electric machines are placed, a narrow plank walk leads across the field toward the woods in the rear. In this are the wires running from the dynamo-electric machines to the railway track, distant perhaps a quarter of a mile. Here the wires are noticeable, emerging from their casing and communicating with the rails. At first sight the track appears to differ from an ordinary railroad only in its gauge, which is three feet six inches. But a closer examination reveals three distinctive features. Where two rails meet they are joined together on the sides. On each side of the joint is a strip of copper, the ends of which are nickel-plated. Outside these strips are screwed on flat bars of iron, the inner surface being also nickel-plated. Thus the current of electricity passes uninterruptedly from rail to rail. As this can not be done at the switches, however, thin plates of copper are placed underneath the ends of both rails, so that the circuit is not broken. The frog in the switches is left out of circuit. It is only about three feet long, and as the driving wheel of the engine is four and a half feet in diameter the wheel passes over the frog with no perceptible interruption. Near the improvised engine-house, which stands a short distance above the point where the wires connect with the rails, and about a quarter of a mile from that end of the track, the one passenger car of the railway stood Friday. The engine was running up and down the track, conveying Charles T. Hughes, the superintendent, and dragging a small platform car loaded with rails and ties. In appearance the engine is peculiar. If an ordinary engine were cut in two midway of the boiler, the forward half discarded, and the cab reduced in size, it would present a tolerably correct representation of the electric engine. Its length is fifteen feet and the height to the top of the cab nine feet. Of course there is no smoke-stack.

When a Tribune reporter took a seat in the cab the flat car had been left at the lower end of the track. Mr. Hughes raised the lever of the armature switch and the engine started. The engine ran evenly at the rate of eighteen miles an hour. No arrangement had been made for running at high speed, as Mr. Hughes was using the engine simply in construction work, and it had been dragging loads of three or four tons. The four dynamo-electric machines at the central station were arranged in a multiple arc instead of in series, as is done to attain a higher speed. Two miles of the road have been completed, extending toward Plainfield, and a mile remains to be finished. At the lower end men were engaged in ballasting the track. The road runs from the engine-house over a trestle about twelve feet high, through a swamp, and then through some fields where there are cuts. Thus far the engine has done all that was expected. Yesterday and on several previous occasions it has proved itself equal to the task of drawing loads as heavy as could be applied, considering the character of the road and rolling stock. On Wednesday, with the dynamo-electric machines arranged in series, it ran at the rate of 41 miles and 4,000 feet in an hour—the highest rate that has yet been reached. The rate of speed is estimated by the number of revolutions of the armature in the engine. The engine can be readily started, reversed and stopped. In the cab, where the steam gauge is placed in the ordinary engine, is the armature switch. Raising the lever sends the current into the armature of the dynamo-electric machine in the front of the engine. If the lever is horizontal, the circuit is broken, and if the lever is pulled down the current is directed into the armature in such a way as to cause it to revolve in the opposite direction, and the engine consequently moves backward. Mr. Edison intends to use an electric brake, but at present, in order to stop, the circuit is broken and an ordinary brake applied.

In examining the engine more closely, the reporter found two sheet-iron doors in the sides of what appeared to be the boiler, so that an inspection of the interior was easy. In front is a dynamo-electric machine; running lengthwise are the two legs of a large magnet, and the remainder of the interior is occupied with shafts and belting. An interesting feature is the course of the current and its transformation into motive power. It is taken up from the rails by the rims of the driving wheels, and passes through copper clamps to the hub. Rubbing against the hub is a copper brush at the end of a horizontal rod, which has the position of the connecting rod of an ordinary engine. The current taken from the hubs of the driving wheels by these brushes passes along the rods to wires which lead to the armature switch in the cab. From this switch the two wires are conducted to the armature of the dynamo-electric machine in front. This machine may be said to fulfil a double function—in absorbing and storing up electric energy as well as in developing it. When the armature and bobbins revolve, the power is transmitted by belting around a pulley on the same shaft with the armature to a pulley on a shaft under the cab. Thence belting runs to a pulley on the shaft of the driving wheel. From the armature wires two smaller wires run to the coils of the magnet placed horizontally in the engine. These are the field wires, and through them the magnet becomes charged with electricity, and exerts a controlling influence on the armature which receives the greater force of the current. Without this magnet the armature would receive the full power of the current and would become so heated as to be useless; but the electricity in the magnet, which can be increased or diminished at will, tends to draw the armature toward it, and in reality causes it to revolve.

The total weight of the engine is four tons. The road, three miles long, will soon be completed and ballasted. The chief merits which Mr. Edison claims in favor of his electric motor are greater economy in fuel, in help, and in the wear and tear of material, and the absence of smoke and cinders. One central station for every ten miles of track is his estimate, the current being sent through the rails for five miles on each side the station. After elaborate calculations in the case of the electric motor as compared with the steam locomotive engine, Mr. Edison claims that the ratio of mean economy for both is 4 to 8.93, or 55⅝ per cent in favor of the electric engine.

A RACE FOR LIFE.

Thrilling Experience of an Engineer on a Runaway Locomotive.

From the Denver Tribune.

John Flarharity, the engineer who jumped from a runaway Denver and Rio Grande engine, which flew the track and was broken to pieces within forty feet of an approaching train at Eiler Station, seven miles from Leadville, was in the city yesterday, a little broken up from his frightful experience, but, as the saying goes, "still in the ring." He has been discharged from the road, it having been stated that he was drinking at the time he lost control of his engine.

This, however, he denies, saying that it was purely accidental and something for which he was not responsible.

Flarharity was running a "pusher" in the yards at Leadville. He was ordered to go down the road and meet the incoming passenger at Eiler's. Just as he started out of the yards the strap connected with the lever broke, and he lost all control of the engine. The engine was a new one and in good condition, and he says he never can explain just why or how it happened. Running at a tremendous speed down grade he expected every moment to be dashed to instant death.

"It was an awful moment," said Flarharity, "when I found that the engine would not respond to the touch of the lever and that she was beyond my control. The cylinder heads blew out, the smoke and steam blinded me, and everything seemed to conspire to hurl us to instant destruction."

"How heavy was the grade?"

"One hundred and eighty-five feet to the mile.

"Down the steep incline the engine dashed like a demented thing. I tugged at the lever and brakes, but it was as if I had been tugging at the solid parts of the engine itself.

"Then suddenly I remembered that I was to meet the passenger train at Eiler's. My fireman jumped off early in the race and I was left alone, thinking that I had left him dead on the track. We were making more than a mile a minute—the engine and I, for at that moment I looked on it as a demon which had taken possession of me and mine, determined to be released for once from its thraldom and to become master where before it had been slave. Little pieces of sand and dirt flew against my face and stung like coals of fire. In the distance I could see the approaching passenger. I yelled and screamed, for I knew that our only hope was to flag that train and get her on the side track. I saw the operator, Woodward, running for the train as he saw me coming, enveloped in a cloud of smoke and steam and dust.

"With one last effort I opened wide the throttle, hoping that the engine would throw herself from the track on the curve and save the train from destruction. Then I jumped, and unconsciousness overcame me. When I recovered I saw the engine lying on her side within forty feet of the passenger train, and people were crowding around me and bathing my head, and hoping I was not killed."

Flarharity escaped miraculously with only a few slight bruises. The accident was one of the strangest on record, and in it not a single person was seriously hurt.

Flarharity says he can never describe the horrors of the trip, the awful feeling that came over him when he found that the engine had him in its power, or the deathly sickness when he found that he was running into the passenger. Houses and rocks flew by him like birds on the wing, and the track seemed one continuous stream of fire. Then he was thrown through space and oblivion and respite came, and afterwards the beautiful assurance that no one was hurt. But he says he would not experience it again for all the treasures of the earth.

It is impossible to diminish poverty by multiplication of effects; but the best thing to diminish the effects of a bad cold is Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Nilsson.

From a Paris Letter.

Mme. Nilsson has shut herself up in strict seclusion since her husband's death, and will see no one except a very few intimate friends. I have been told by those who profess to know that she lost not one sou of her fortune in the recent financial crisis, for that she always refused to permit M. Rouzeaud to speculate with her money. He lost everything that he was worth in the world individually, namely, some $600,000, but his fair wife's property is safe. I sincerely hope that such is the case. I have also heard that Mme. Nilsson is on the lookout for a desirable suite of apartments, as she intends to make Paris hereafter her permanent home.

THE ZUNIS' IDOL.

Strange Ceremonies on the Shore of the Raging Atlantic.

Boston Special to Chicago Times.

The visiting Zunis attained the acme of their desires to-day in being conducted to the brink of the ocean and allowed to cast their mystic ceremonies in its surf. Probably no more curious spectacle has been witnessed on the shores of Massachusetts Bay since the pilgrims landed at Plymouth than that which was presented this afternoon when these mysterious descendants of the oldest inhabitants of the American continent, surrounded by a curious company of city officials and invited guests, knelt on the shore of Deer Island and prayed to the God of their forefathers, whose embodiment is the Atlantic. Among the party who went down on the city steamer were Mayor Green, Rev. Phillips Brooks, Prof. Putnam, Prof. Horsford and Prof. Morse. The Indians were awestruck at the sight of so much water, and began mumbling prayers and chanting sacred songs as soon as the steamer left the dock, anon scattering to the wind the "sacred flour" which they brought with them for the purpose. The wind was blowing fresh from the northwest when the boat reached the island, and the Indians and their guide, Mr. Cushing, dressed in their finest feathers, and painted in their most elaborate fashion, were speedily conducted to a point where they could look eastward over the sea. After squatting on their haunches on the weedy rocks, and with the utensils for holding the water placed upon the ground before them, they began a prayer chant in a subdued tone of voice, scattering meal from their pouches upon the sea as they did so in four different directions, to propitiate the gods of the north and the south, of the upper and lower regions, the "mother of the ocean and the father of the world." With this symbol of strewn meal is a road or path which the priest marks out with it, signifying a request that the paths in life of the supplicants and their children may be "finished," to use the Zuni expression, or drawn out and prolonged, as we should say in uttering the same idea. The rising tide interfered considerably with the spectators, some of whom had to wade in from their places of observation, and an enterprising photographer, who had planted himself on two small stones in the very front of the kneeling Zuni and trained his camera on them, was soaked up to his knees before the negative was taken. The Indians, however, were much pleased with the rising tide, considering it, in their ignorance of physical geography, a mark of especial favor on the part of the gods of the sea, and, despite the slight wetting they got, they persisted in completing their chart and petition. Then returning a short distance up the beach an irregular crescent of spectators was formed about a hundred feet across, with the Indians sitting close together in the center. They began their next performance by smoking sacred cigarettes (filled with tobacco, by the way), praying meanwhile and blowing the smoke among the feathers of the prayer sticks which they carried, after which they cast them into the waves. Then the two head chiefs, taking off their moccasins and leggins, waded into the icy waters and filled their vases and gourds, after which all returned to the tent which had been erected for their use, and Mr. Cushing and one of the Indians whirled in the air sticks at the end of twisted thongs, by which a whizzing sound was produced and the gods informed that the ceremony was ended. At the tent another song was chanted, in which was recited the good expected to result to the tribe from the services, and meal was scattered to the westward, the direction which the chiefs must take in returning to their own land. After this the Zunis emerged from the tent and proceeded to the shore and filled two large demijohns with water to take home for use in their religious rites. Mr. Cushing was then initiated into the highest order, that of the bow. The ceremony consisted simply of sprinkling, as in the church, the washing of hands and affectionate embracing. The admission of the young ethnologist into the inner sanctum of the tribe is to result hereafter in his learning the secret history of the Zuni race, and his acquiring therefrom much that is now unknown in the early history of America.

Killed by Her Lover.

Napanee (Ont.) Special to the Chicago Tribune.

A shockingly atrocious and cold-blooded murder of a girl by her discarded lover was committed here this morning about 8 o'clock. The victim was Maggie Howie, a kitchen-maid in the Osborne House here, and the murderer the stableman, Michael Lee. The circumstances, briefly told, are these: This morning the girl went out to milk the cow, but, before going, told the head cook, Jane Shaw, that she wished she would watch, for she was afraid of Mike. The girl staying longer than usual at the stable, the cook went to the door to call her, but was met by Lee, who gruffly asked her what she wanted there, and continued: "Go to the house; I wanted to have a talk with Maggie;" and he slammed the stable-door in her face. She returned to the house, but Maggie Howie's help being needed to serve the breakfast, the cook went to the stable and was horrified to find the girl lying dead on the stable floor. She ran to the house shrieking "Maggie's dead!" and Mr. MacDonald, the proprietor, hastened to the stable and found the poor girl stretched dead, her head at the manger. A ghastly wound, made with an ax which was lying at her feet, was found in the top of the victim's head, which was lying in a pool of blood. Meantime the murderer, Lee, had escaped. He was seen crossing the railway viaduct and making for the country south of town. The tidings of the murder spread rapidly, and the hotel was besieged by a surging crowd. A dozen volunteer parties of search at once set out, and the assassin was captured in the woods about three miles south of the town. Three or four of the parties came onto him at once, and when he saw he was cornered he knelt down beside a bowlder and attempted to dash out his brains. He was at once seized and confessed to striking the girl with an ax, the fact of her death being carefully concealed from him. He was brought to town, and Center street, by which the party entered, was crowded with an eager and apparently bloodthirsty crowd, for, as the captured murderer passed through the crowd, his face a mass of dried gore from his self-inflicted wounds, the cry rose loudly, "Lynch him!" "String him up!" The police, however, kept the crowd back, and the prisoner was lodged in the cell, a guard being placed over him to prevent a renewal of his suicidal attempt. The murderer was a remarkably steady, industrious man, but has lately neglected his work on account of his love affairs not running smoothly. Last night his trouble culminated in the girl giving him back his engagement ring. Circumstances go to show that the foul deed was premeditated. Lee told his captors that he visited the girl at the stables this morning, and, on her repeating her refusal to marry him, he hit her with the ax. He is about 25 years of age, and the murdered girl, daughter of Robert Howie, York Road, Ernestown, about 19.

A Pair of Dramatic Hawks.

Boston Special to New York World.

An advertisement appeared recently in a New York paper announcing that any young and handsome lady of means desiring to appear on the stage in a leading part might hear of an opportunity by addressing the person inserting the advertisement and who calls himself "Alfred Schwab, associate manager Tabor's Grand Opera-house, Denver, Col." Miss Helen Morris Lewis, of Charleston, S. C., the daughter of a well-known and reputable merchant of that city, and who was temporarily residing in New York, read the advertisement and had an interview with Schwab. Terms were arranged for a two-years' engagement as leading lady in a traveling combination, she to make her first appearance in "Daniel Rochat" at the Boston Theater. Schwab informed Miss Lewis that it would be necessary for her to purchase a wardrobe, and that, as he knew just what she wanted, he would undertake to get it for her. She gave him $500 to make the purchase. The two soon after came to Boston, Schwab accompanied by a man whom he introduced as "Mr. Robt. J. Rummels, treasurer of the Park Theater, New York, for six years." They reached this city on the 15th inst. and rooms were engaged at the Revere House. Shortly after arriving here Schwab represented to Miss Lewis that it would be a good thing for her to be "coached" somewhat in the part in which she was to make her first appearance, and he accordingly engaged a professor of elocution to instruct her and she received one lesson. The wardrobe not appearing, Miss Lewis became suspicious and went to the Boston Theater, where she discovered that she had been victimized. She returned to New York. Before going, however, she was called upon to pay the hotel bills of Schwab and Rummels, who, suspecting that their game was up, had fled. Rummels managed to induce Miss Lewis to lend him a sum of money to help replace $45 belonging to Schwab which he confessed with tears he had lost at faro. The two adventurers while in Boston inserted a similar advertisement in a Boston paper, and it is reported that a young lady living here is said to have nibbled at the bait.

PAPER.

Interesting Facts About Its Manufacture and Use.

From the Albany Evening Journal.

Paper car-wheels are composed entirely of paper rings pressed together under a weight of six tons, and then fastened by means of bolts and steel tires put on them, when they are ready for use. Laid loosely, the rings stack as high as the shoulders of an ordinary man. Under treatment they sink to the thickness required. If the tire should wear or fall off the wheel, or the train run from the track, there would be no danger of their breaking, as they are very flexible and would spring. A paper ball can be rendered so solid that nothing but a diamond tool can cause an indentation into it. At the mill is a square block of compressed paper fastened on a turning lathe, and so hard that if a fine steel chisel is held against it when it is moving, instead of cutting the paper it will break the chisel into a hundred pieces. The strength is astonishing. You can take a £5 note of the Bank of England, twist it into a kind of rope, suspend 339 pounds upon one end of it and not injure it in the slightest degree. Bath tubs and pots are formed by compressing the paper made out of linen fibres and annealed—that is, painted over with a composition which becomes a part thereof, and is fireproof. The tubs last indefinitely, never leak, and, put in the fire, will not burn up. You can beat on them with a hammer and not injure them. Plates compressed and annealed are very durable; you cannot only wash them, but drop them upon the floor and stand upon them. The fork can be used for any practical purpose, and the knife can always be kept sharp. Paper can be substituted for wood, converted into picture frames and colored like walnut, cherry and the like. Bedsteads are fashioned the same as car wheels, only of long strips instead of rings. They are very beautiful and lasting. Cooking or heating stoves are also annealed, and it is impossible to burn them out; they are less costly than iron. A house can be literally constructed of and furnished with every convenience in paper. The printing press, type and all the fixtures of the office could be concocted of this material, and more cheaply than of the ordinary kind. A complete steam engine can be thus manufactured and do all required duty. Clothes and shoes will come in the future. Twenty-nine hours are needed to transfer linen fibre into a car wheel.

Solid, card-like paper was made as early as the fifth century, but it is stated on the authority of the Arabian historians, and largely conceded, that linen paper did not come into use until 1270, or at most but a short time before. The cotton card or paper known previously was of a thick, coarse, woolly texture, brittle and inferior. There is still some demand for hand-made paper, and in a corner of the L. L. Brown Paper Company at Adams are simple and inexpensive appointments for the production of paper as it was made one, two and three hundred years ago. The call comes largely for uses in making architectural drawings—for drawing paper, in short—in consequence of the fact that it will not stretch, a point indispensable in accurate drawings. The paper can be erased and rewritten upon. A brisk demand has sprung up for these papers for wedding and society invitation cards, billets doux and personal correspondence; also, for business houses where recherche stationery is desirable.

BOURBON AND BONANZA.

The Engagement of Don Philippe de Bourbon to Miss Mackey.

From the New York Star.

According to a telegram received in this city yesterday in London, which divides with Paris the honor of originating the most startling society rumors, Miss Mackey, daughter of Mr. Mackey, known as the "Bonanza King," is about to be married to Don Philippe de Bourbon, second son of Count d'Aquila. The announcement has given the members of select society here a theme for gossip. Miss Mackey is not only considered a beauty, but she is also an heiress, and has already, it is said, refused the offers of more than one comparatively rich American, preferring to join her future to a title abroad. For several years most of her time has been passed among the elite of the French capital, where, without her presence, no ball or entertainment was considered complete. Somewhat over a year ago she met Don Philippe and formed a strong attachment for him, but upon learning that that nobleman was spoken of as being engaged to an Italian beauty of a noble family an estrangement followed, which for a time put an end to the anticipated nuptials. Since then her Italian rival has become a Countess, and, all barriers being removed, Don Philippe and the American heiress have agreed to become one.

Very little of course is known of Don Philippe de Bourbon in society circles here. The French Consul yesterday stated to a Star reporter that Don Philippe is the second son of Count d'Aquila and a nephew of the late King of Naples, Francis II.

"I have frequently met Don Philippe in the salons of Paris," said he. "He is what you would term a dashing handsome fellow, just the sort to carry off one of your American beauties. He is about 30 years of age, has black flashing eyes, dark hair and wears a full beard. I should say he is about 5 feet 6, is very intelligent and speaks English very fluently."

"Is Don Philippe wealthy?" was asked.

"No, he is not. That is to say, for a nobleman. But he has sufficient means, I dare say, to live comfortably."

"Is he a military man?"

"I hardly think so. But, if my memory serves me, during the war in Spain I think he espoused the cause of Don Carlos and fought under his banner. He has made Paris his home for a number of years past, and is a well-known habitue of the clubs, salons, theaters and race-courses. When I was in Paris about a year ago it was currently reported that Don Philippe was about to marry a young lady said to be the daughter of a Spanish or Italian Prince, but I cannot now recall the lady's name."

"You met Miss Mackey in Paris?"

"Oh, yes. She is well known there, and is considered one of our Parisian beauties. She used to be thought eccentric, particularly in the style of her dress, which was composed of gaudy colors. The lady attended nearly all the receptions, and was apparently very fond of having her name appear in the newspapers. I cannot possibly say whether the Don is an Italian or Bourbon or Spanish. He looks like a Spaniard, but I believe he is an Italian. He cannot be a French Bourbon, for if he was I would know much more about him. He has, however, the regular Bourbon nose."

"What is thought of the marriage among French residents?"

"Oh, I don't know. Well, it was what you term a marriage de convenance, I suppose."

Dr. W. E. SCOTT, President of the College of Physicians, Montreal, writes; "I have recommended Colden's Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef and Tonic Invigorator as the best preparation used for Debility, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Fever, Ague, etc." Ask for Colden's, take no other. Of druggists generally.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is the great household medicine of the American people, and is taken everywhere as a safeguard against epidemics and endemics, as a remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness and irregularities of the bowels, as a cure for chills and fever and rheumatic ailments, as a sedative in nervous cases and as a general invigorant and restorative. For sale by all druggists and dealers generally.

A CELEBRATED BEAUTY.

EVERY LADY
Has a Right to be Beautiful.

But no lady whose skin is disfigured with specks and blemishes and blotches and pimples, can ever hope to take the prize for beauty. Many a lady has suffered mental torture beyond expression, because of the unsightly condition of a face disfigured by pimples and eruptions, for the removal of which she would have paid any price. Some ladies have been all their lives in bondage to this mortification, and have kept themselves secluded from society on account of it. Every lady may have an attractive face, with soft, pure and unblemished skin, if she will. Not by aid of lotions, or plasters, or unguents. These make the mischief worse. The cause of the trouble lies below the surface. It is in the blood. Impure blood must in some manner send out its impurities, just as the earth must find vent for pent-up fires in the eruptions of Vesuvius and Ætna. Eruptions on the skin are volcanoes and can not be quenched by outside application. But this mischievous and volcanic action of impurities in the system has been found to yield to one purifying agent. The "D'EFFIAT BLOOD AND SKIN REMEDY" was discovered over a century ago by L'Abbe D'Effiat, one of the most famous of French Chemists. It kept that CELEBRATED BEAUTY, Madame Ninon de L'Enclos, in all the fresh bloom of youth till she was past ninety. It was used by the ladies of the Court of France and kept a secret. The discoverer imparted his knowledge to a physician of this country, and American ladies are now reaping the advantage of it. Ladies who now suffer from scrofulous blemishes, obstinate pimples, unsightly "black-heads," unpleasant roughness of skin, bilious sallowness of countenance and all that class of impediments to beauty, will find the D'EFFIAT BLOOD AND SKIN REMEDY" exactly what they need. It strikes at the very source of the difficulty. It casts out of the blood those influences which produce rheumatism and symptoms of blood poisoning. It does its work promptly, certainly, harmlessly, delightfully. THOUSANDS OF LADIES HAVE USED IT WITH COMPLETE SUCCESS. All persons suffering from External application of skin remedies will do well to consult or correspond with our office physician. A package costs but a dollar. Six packages $5. Sent by mail in letter form, postage paid. All respectable druggists keep it. Buy of them, or address

THE WENTWORTH
NEWCASTLE, N. H.

This Hotel will open June 24th. It has accommodations for 450 guests, and offers more attractions for the pleasure and comfort of its patrons than any other seaside resort on the Atlantic Coast. Its high situation affords beautiful views both inland and seaward; its healthful atmosphere, the easy manner by which it can be reached, its advantages for boating, fishing and bathing, excellent drives and attractive walks, all combine to make it one of the most charming places on the New England coast. The house contains every modern appliance. It has spacious and well-ventilated rooms, furnished in black walnut, WITH THE BEST OF BEDS, large parlors, halls and rooms for social enjoyment, passenger elevator operated by steam, Music Hall for dancing and theatricals.
An Orchestra of twenty members of acknowledged professional ability, under the direction of Mr. Henry L. Harlow, will furnish music for the season.
The verandah, fifteen feet in width, surrounding the house, gives an extended promenade of over 1,000 feet in length, while the view is excellent in beauty and grandeur. Bowling Alleys, Billiard Room, Steam Yacht for excursions, sail and row boats under the direction of trusty and experienced men. First-class livery and boarding stable. Grounds lighted by the electric light. New York and Boston stock reports received every hour.
The Wentworth is reached by means of the Eastern Railway in two hours' ride from Boston, and it is equally distant from Portland, Maine. It is four hours' ride from the Fabyan House by way of the White Mountain Notch and North Conway. It is also reached from the White Mountain range by the Boston, Concord and Montreal and the Concord Railways, and by the Grand Trunk by way of Portland.
At the station in Portsmouth the coaches of the hotel are always in waiting.
Address, Portsmouth, N. H.

ROOM for the American Nabob! Clear the way for Attorney-General BREWSTER'S aristocratic apple-cart!

MEASURES are being taken in Congress to put a hook in the nose of the Louisiana Lottery leviathan. This will make pleasant picking for the lobby.

SENATOR JOHN LOGAN is preparing to visit Hot Springs, Arkansas, for the benefit of his health. This is a bad point from which to address the American people on the subject of the Presidency.

A STALWART Party Court Martial, with C. I. FILLEY as Judge Advocate, should be called at once to determine the degree of GEN. RAUM'S treason to GRANT in the time that tried the souls of politicians.

IF our prosperous merchants and representative business men will express themselves emphatically through the Merchants' Exchange on the 4th of April in favor of the special tax plan of street paving the Boom would take care of itself thereafter. Give the noble cause a lift, gentlemen.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR is going to attend a theater in Washington next Saturday evening—the first time since his promotion to the Presidency. He seems to have been seduced by the tender of a private box by JOHN T. FORD, the manager of the old theater in which LINCOLN was assassinated.

THE St. Louis physicians who, in 1848, certified that limestone dust was provocative of laryngitis, consumption, etc., had not heard the beautiful theories advanced relative to the fattening, wholesome qualities of the stuff when nicely powdered. We have people here to-day who honestly believe that Col. FLAD'S paving material, when inhaled, in a pulverized form, is conducive to longevity. But they are nearly all related to the odious Macadam Ring.

IT seems that as far back as 1848 the physicians of St. Louis united in a certificate to the effect that limestone dust was deleterious to health. Their philippic against the horrible nuisance was backed by petitions from citizens asking for a change in the street-paving system, but even in that early day the Macadam Ring had completely enfolded the city in its clutches. We have seen how difficult it is to shake that horrid beast loose from the municipal carcass.

AS an evidence of the settled and hopeless idiocy of the turn-spit dogs in the editorial kitchen of the Republican, it may be mentioned that they are still referring down there to Missouri as a State having a Democratic majority of 50,000. This awful falsehood was repeated this morning with editorial prominence. The actual Democratic majority in Missouri is 19,907. It takes about fifteen years for an important historical fact to percolate through the ossified brains in the Republican office.

IT seems pretty well settled now that at the very beginning of the war President LINCOLN offered Gen. R. E. LEE the command of the National armies. The Rev. T. W. JONES, Secretary of the Southern Historical Society, has furnished the Philadelphia Times a copy of a letter written by LEE himself, in which he explains how and when the proposition was made to him by Mr. LINCOLN. How different would have been the history of the country had he embraced his golden opportunity! Perhaps some of us here in St. Louis would still be buying our cord-wood of U. S. GRANT.

SOME thirty years ago, when Mr. JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL was the apostle of human rights and the poet of humanity, the fact that a citizen of Ohio or Illinois obeyed the laws then existing, and returned a negro slave to his owner, threw him into an acute spasm of outraged sensibility. White citizens of the United States, however, may be insulted and imprisoned in Ireland without reason or justice, and Minister LOWELL simply feels called upon to warn other citizens to keep away. New England philanthropy is a singular system of ethics, as consistent as its prophet, Mr. LOWELL.

THE City Council has before it the last of the Charter amendments, submitting to the people the proposition to have the streets sprinkled and charged to the property as a special tax. The heavy owners of unimproved real estate in Council are afraid to give the people a chance to vote on this proposition. Summer is approaching and already the dust nuisance is making life in St. Louis intolerable. If Council will vote to-morrow night to submit the sprinkling amendment the water-carts will be at work in sixty days. Don't pocket the proposition, gentlemen, as you have heretofore. Give the people a chance to say yes or no at the polls.

THE Directory of the Merchants' Exchange has adopted a resolution favoring the reconstruction of the principal streets of St. Louis with granite or some other durable material, and has called a special mass meeting on 'Change Tuesday, April 4, at high noon, to discuss the proposition and consider resolutions similar to those recently adopted by the solid men of the Commercial Club. This meeting should be the largest ever held in the hall of the Exchange. Every active business man and capitalist who belongs to the organization should be there to lend his indorsement to the proposition to lift the feet of St. Louis from the mire and set them on the rock of ages.

THE report comes from Berlin that Gen. SKOBELEFF has been honorably exiled—i. e., sent to Turkestan to reorganize the government. This is more like an honorable recognition from the Czar than a rebuke. There are only two places that a Russian can be sent without benefiting his surroundings and conditions. One is Siberia and the other is Hades. NAPOLEON used to say that the Russians were the most dangerous people in Europe because any other country was better than their own and that for this reason they had an inherent disposition to go visiting with arms in their hands. No doubt SKOBELEFF feels greatly obliged to the Czar for sending him to Turkestan, where he will be able to make speeches and guzzle sour wine to his heart's content, free from the jealousies and court annoyances of St. Petersburg.

MR. NABOB BREWSTER, the Attorney-General of the United States, has risen up from the downy back cushion of his heraldic carriage to make the remark that the anti-Chinese bill recently passed by Congress is in direct contravention of certain stipulations and treaties entered into by us with the Chinese Government. With this view of the case, Mr. ARTHUR will probably veto the bill. Mr. BREWSTER may be right. We would be very sorry to believe that his intervention in behalf of the Mongolian could be traced to fiery dragons on his carriage doors and horse blankets. The Chinese have maintained the dragon for several hundred years as a government institution, and the fact that the conspicuous figure on BREWSTER'S family crest is a dragon may create the impression that the Attorney-General is of Turanian descent. He should write a card and explain matters.

AN HONEST MAN.

This is the way an official talks who means what he says and has sincerity of conviction. We copy from an interview with Circuit Attorney HARRIS in this morning's Globe Democrat:

"The fact is, I don't intend to permit myself to be trifled with at all. I am sorry to see that so little attention was paid to this recent order of the Chief of Police. If I were in his place I wouldn't stand that."

"What would you do?"

"What would I do if I told them to close their places and they did not do it? I would make them," said the Circuit Attorney with emphasis.

"How?"

"I would begin to arrest them and keep it up until they were all in the lock-up."

"But how can you do this without breaking doors. They keep the doors closed against the police, only opening them when a customer calls."

"Doors! I'd break them down, and take men, tables and all to the station."

"That's what they call raiding. You are not in favor of that, are you?"

"Yes. I would not only break doors, but I would break bones if necessary to accomplish my purpose."

"Are you aware that you are advocating a very serious step? Do you know that Mr. F. D. Turner has advised his clients to shoot down any policeman in uniform who attempts to break into a gambling establishment?"

"I know exactly what I am talking about. If I were the Chief of Police I would not only break doors, but I would break bones, if need be, in carrying out the law."

Our pious Police President CUPPLES should read the above and ponder over it. Mr. HARRIS is the highest authority as to what the law is. If Mr. CUPPLES will use the great powers specially vested in him as President, as the Circuit Attorney suggests, law-breaking would soon end in this city.

By the way, what in the world is Mr. CUPPLES doing anyway as Police President?

MRS. ELLA RODMAN CHURCH has a work in press entitled, "Money-making for Ladies," which, if it carries out the purpose indicated in its title, will be a most important contribution to the study of modern economics. There are few topics which appeal so strongly to the modern sense of right and wrong as the circumscribed and narrow domain of female industry. A woman is born to be married, and if she evades this fate there is nothing for her to do. Some women sing in church choirs, others learn telegraphing and Kensington embroidery, a few make good clerks, many teach and many sell goods in stores, and there the possibilities of woman's work ends. We are told that there is work for every pair of willing hands in the world, but the facts are against this happy theory. There are thousands of cultivated, industrious and anxious women in every city who can find no labor to do or who are miserably paid for such employment as they get. It is for this great and growing class that the problem of money-making for females must be solved. Matrimony is not the certain culmination of every feminine life. As population increases in America it becomes more and more evident that the balance of the sexes is not being preserved. The excess of females is yearly growing. What are the women who do not marry to do? The problem of bread-winning is of the first and last importance. The barriers which ignorance and stupidity have erected about certain callings must be broken down. The whole range of human industry must be declared common ground without distinction of age or sex, without any test but fitness and physical ability for work. Every restriction on the right to make a living either for man or woman is a relic of barbarism which should be swept away. Deft and nice labor must be relegated to feminine hands. The hard work of the world is enough for the masculine toilers. The time is coming when society must adjust itself to the new necessities of the nineteenth century. The time is rapidly passing by when a man's work will be estimated as intrinsically worth 30 per cent more than a woman's because he is naturally capacitated to eat, drink and waste more than a woman.

IT is fair to presume that Police President CUPPLES, the moral reformer of the Police Board, is pleased with the efforts which the Chief of Police is making to suppress gambling in the city of St. Louis. It never occurred to the pious Mr. CUPPLES, as Executive Officer of the Board, we believe, to direct the Chief to enforce the laws against gambling, but Mr. CUPPLES' truly religious mind is not so taken up with foreign missions, Center Market and moral reforms in Africa that he is unable to appreciate a good thing when he sees it. He must applaud the thoughtful, agile Chief to the echo when he notes the curious campaign which he is conducting against the "sports." Perhaps he prays daily that the Chief may have power to execute and faith to sustain him in his noble efforts to suppress the vice of gambling in our fair but somewhat dusty city. It is as a praying man that the truly good Mr. CUPPLES has been of service to the Police Board. His prayers do not appear on the minutes and for this reason some people have conceived the idea that he was really doing nothing in the way of employing his power to strike down the rampant immoralities of the city, but this really does the reformatory Mr. CUPPLES great injustice.

H. MARTIN WILLIAMS, the Greenback propagator, is out in the Warrensburg Standard in an address to the voters of the Eastern Legislative District of Johnson county, in which he announces himself as a candidate for the Legislature on an Anti-Gerrymander platform. There is a vacancy to fill, caused by the resignation of Mr. WORKMAN. The eloquent H. MARTIN shows conclusively that there is no necessity for a special session of the Legislature and no necessity for changing districts which are already tolerably well apportioned both as to population and politics. We detest Mr. WILLIAMS' awful financial principles, but in this anti-gerrymander business we are with him. It is to be hoped that this issue will be raised in every district in which a special election is to be held.

MISS PHŒBE COUZINS, the woman suffragist of St. Louis, has applied to be appointed one of the commissioners to organize society in Utah. Miss Phoebe's appointment would be an absurdity. Never having had a household of her own to regulate, she would not have the experience, even in a remote degree, to cope with the complex system set up by the Mormons.—Kansas City Times.

This is a mistake. Our esteemed friend PHOEBE has kept house in this city for a long time and she can make bread as nicely as she can draw up a brief. There would be no absurdity whatever in sending her out to Utah to help regulate the new government. She would do far more effective work than some of the old grannies in breeches who are generally detailed for important service of this kind. The fair PHOEBE can depend on our support.

—It is always the middle of spring with Oscar and his followers. To be more exact, say April 1.

—Two more lawyers have injected themselves into the Mason case. If the Sergeant isn't careful this thing will end in his being hung.

—It appears that Jesse James induced the Missouri young men to rob a train, and then failed to divide the plunder. It is not known in what State Mr. James is now practicing law.

—Mrs. Gladstone usually sits in the ladies' gallery when her husband makes his important speeches. Now, where does Mr. Gladstone sit while his wife is making her important speeches?

—Pere Hyacinthe, when asked why the Prussian soldiers were so uniformly victorious, replied: "Because each one of them carries a Bible in his knapsack." The Pere has never been a soldier, or he would give a little credit to pea sausage.

—Mrs. Senator Jones, of Nevada, invites twenty pretty young ladies to afternoon lunches. Ten little tea-pots are arranged for their convenience; no servants are visible, each cavalier waiting upon the damsels of his choice. Solos, duets and reading furnish the rest of the entertainment. Mrs. Jones is a pretty young lady herself.

—A man claiming to be the brother of Justice Stanley Matthews, who said his name was Joseph Matthews, went before a Police Magistrate in New York city on Monday afternoon and asked to be given something to eat, as he was perfectly destitute. He said he was on good terms with his brother, the Judge, but had not even money enough to write to him for help. The Judge gave him a meal, and promised him a night's lodging.

—Commodore Vanderbilt's widow will be married after the end of Lent to Dr. Nathan Bozeman, a surgeon of some reputation in New York, and the manager of one of the large charity hospitals. It is announced, as might have been expected, that Mr. Wm. H. Vanderbilt is not pleased with the marriage, but the young wife has already passed a long widowhood and she is entirely her own mistress as to her choice and fortune.

The Horrible Dust in 1848.

ST. LOUIS, March 29.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In my researches for material for my forthcoming History of the City and County of St. Louis, I came across the following document, which tells its own story. No men in the community are so well qualified to speak of the injurious effects of macadamized streets as the physicians, but their representations then, as now, did not have any weight with the City Council. At that time, and in fact from the earliest period, as my investigations demonstrate, the City Council was asked to abandon altogether a system of paving which has produced such deleterious effects. Accompanying this document was a petition signed by hundreds of persons asking the city authorities to heed the wishes of the people and to comply with their request by adopting some other system of paving—such as granite or Belgian blocks, as is used in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Baltimore.

Truly yours,
J. THOMAS SCHARF.

ST. LOUIS, May 15, 1848

The undersigned, being requested to express their opinion as to the effects produced upon the public health by the dust which arises in such large quantities from the macadamized streets in St. Louis in dry weather and fills the atmosphere, beg leave to state:

First: That it is extremely deleterious to the eyes, producing inflammation of those organs.

Second: That, being inhaled into the air passages, it produces various diseases of those parts, such as chronic laringitis, bronchitis, consumption, etc.

Dr. Fell Chased Down.

ST. LOUIS, March 20, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"I do not like thee, Dr. Fell,
The reason why I cannot tell,"

is a free translation of the 31st epigram of the first book of Martial: "Non amo te, Sabidi, nec possum dicere quare—Hoc tantum possum dicere, non amo te." The name was adopted evidently from the necessities of the rhyme.

* * *

ST. LOUIS, March 29.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I can help your correspondent of yesterday as to the lines about "Dr. Fell." The correct reading is:

"I do not love thee, Dr. Fell,
The reason why I cannot tell;
But this alone I know full well,
I do not love thee, Dr. Fell."

It was written by Tom Brown, who was born in 1663, and died in 1704. Dr. "Fell" was invented to rhyme with "tell." The same thing is found in the French of Bussey in the Count de Rabutin.

C. A.

ST. LOUIS, March 30, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Referring to J. M.'s communication in your paper of yesterday, I think the Dr. Fell matter owes its origin to the Latin verse:

Non amo te, Sabidi,
Nec possum dicere quare:
Hoc tantum possum dicere,
Non amo te, Sabidi.

Translated:

I do not love thee, Dr. Fell,
The reason why I cannot tell:
This much I know full well,
I do not love thee, Dr. Fell.

MODESTY.

Merchants' Exchange Membership.

ST. LOUIS, March 29, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The proposed amendment to the rules and regulations of the Exchange, raising the initiation fee to $2,500, to be voted on April 8, provides that it shall go into effect May 1. This is contrary to the understanding of those who signed the petition to the directory. It expressly stated that if adopted they asked it should go into effect immediately. It is questionable if our directors have absolute powers and can traverse the wishes of the members of the Exchange if they see fit or desire to do so. The theory that most of us indulge is that they are merely our representatives to carry out our wishes, and when they transcend the authority with which we clothe them they assume too much and their action becomes arbitrary and unwarranted. This is the general feeling on the floor in the matter, and it would be more in harmony with our record and more graceful in our directory to respect our wishes in the matter. Yours truly,

S.

The Bold, Bad Infidel.

From a New York Letter.

Col. Bob Ingersoll's lectures in New York show that he can draw the largest congregation in the country, and a clergyman told me yesterday that he was astonished to hear his young daughter ask if she could not be taken to hear Mr. Ingersoll. He was not aware that she knew anything about this infidel, but it seems that his anecdotes and strong figures of speech have an almost universal circulation.

The Hero of the Knapps.

From the Sedalia Democrat.

The assault on Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the POST-DISPATCH, appears to have been very cowardly, and yet to have resulted more disastrously to the assailant than the assailed. The identity of the fellow remains unknown, although Mr. Pulitzer has offered a liberal reward for his discovery. The circumstances indicate, however, that he was merely the tool of other parties.

Mistaking the Symptoms.

NO MORE ARRESTS.

Gamblers Defying the Police and Their Power.

A Threat and Menace Against Circuit Attorney Harris.

The new policy announced by the police to the gamblers was to the effect that, on and after the receipt of the communication stating the department's plans towards the sporting fraternity, the houses should close or both players and proprietors would be arrested. Since then only two men have been arrested. They were taken from in front of Pate's, No. 12 North Fourth street, and arraigned in the Police Court, where they pleaded guilty and were fined $10 each. This amount was promptly paid and the first and last cases disposed of.

THIS MORNING

a reporter called on Chief Kennett at the Four Courts concerning the situation. "Last night," said the Chief, "three houses were running games, and all very slimly attended. Several of the other houses were open to visitors, but no game was run at any of them."

"How has the new plan worked?"

"Very satisfactorily. Only three houses were opened, and small games played at these. They will die of their own weight alone."

"Were any more arrests made yesterday?"

"I have not received any report from Capt. Fruchte of the district yet."

"Have the officers any difficulty in gaining admission to the houses?"

"Yes, there is considerable difficulty in gaining admission."

"Will the police resort to raids?"

"Not unless all other methods fail. Raiding implies too much risk and useless work. We can take the tables and property, but must return them in the same condition to the owners. Then there is the carrying of them to the station and back again. In one or two cases we have taken the property to use in evidence in the courts."

"Would the confiscation of the gambling materials for the purpose of evidence help to suppress gambling any?"

"No, they could supply all the materials as fast as we could confiscate it."

"The present system of arresting will be continued then?"

"Yes, so far the results have been satisfactory and the games will quit themselve if they are patronized no better than they were last night."

"What about the lottery schemes now in operation?"

"We have gathered all the evidence that we can. The difficulty is to prove that it is a lottery and that there are no races, as the lottery men say. Of course I am morally certain that it is nothing but lottery myself, but this cannot be proved in court. The point will have to be decided in a court of law in some case."

CIRCUIT ATTORNEY HARRIS

has publicly expressed an opinion favoring raiding the gambling-houses with

"I would break down doors or break bones if it were necessary to carry out the law. I have heard that certain attorneys have advised the gamblers to shoot officers who attempt to raid. If I could make a case on such men who are obstructing the law in such a manner, I would make it hot for them. I would break down doors and seize the gambling outfits if itdevolved on me to suppress gambling."

When one of the lawyers employed by the gamblers heard of these statements of the Circuit Attorney he said, "It is Harris' business to attend to the cases in the Criminal Court, and we will see if it will pay him to step outside of this. The gamblers and lottery-men defeated Sam. Erskine, who was running for the office of Circuit Attorney against Harris at the last election, and told him they would do so. Let Harris wait now and see if it will pay him to step outside of his duty in this matter."

The gambling houses open last night were as follows:

Pate's, No. 12 North Fourth street—keno.

Northeast corner of Fourth and Walnut—keno.

Isaac Treadway, No. 107 North Fifth street—faro.

The gamblers who are still running are very defiant. One of them said: "Let the police run their business, and we'll run ours."

MARRIED MISERY.

The Stories of Mr. and Mrs. Pohl in the Police Court.

In the First District Police Court this morning a young and comely-looking woman appeared and complained to the Judge that she had been beaten and ill-treated by her husband for a long time, and that forbearance had ceased to be a virtue in her case. She said that she had met Alois Pohl something over two years ago, and after he had courted her for a time she consented to become his wife, and they were married. Pohl is an industrious young fellow, and works at the Missouri Car Foundry, and has for some time past. According to Mrs. Pohl's statement, soon after their marriage her husband acted coldly toward her, and soon after abused and reproached her, and finally wound up by beating her. She says he is somewhat jealous of her, although she avers he has not the slightest reason for it, as she has always been true to him, but that she thinks his ill-treatment of her comes mainly from the natural meanness of his disposition.

Pohl was arrested yesterday under the charge of beating and ill-treating his wife, and the case came up this morning before Judge Jecko. It was continued until to-morrow at the request of Pohl. The attorney for the wife says that Pohl seems to be naturally vicious and has broken up nearly all the furniture in the house where they lived on Lafayette street, near Columbus, during his "spells." He refuses to support his wife and she is now living with her father, Rife Snyder, a wagon-maker. She declares her intention of never living with her husband again, and she proposes to bring a suit for divorce in the next term of court. Besides the case in the Police Court the attorney for Mrs. Pohl signifies his intention of taking Pohl before the Court of Criminal Correction under the charge of ill-treatment and failure to support his wife, and he says he will have the warrant sworn out to-day for the purpose. The attorney for Pohl claims that the wife has been guilty of adultery, and that Pohl proposes to prove it, and he will institute a suit for divorce himself immediately.

THE FALLIS-LICHLITER SUITS.

A St. Louis Firm at Last Obtains Judgment in Court.

A telegram was received this morning from Carthage, Mo., announcing that the jury in the case of Samuel Cupples & Co. against Fallis and Lichliter had rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs and released defendant Fallis. Mr. John M. Glover, the attorney for plaintiffs, was found at his office to-day, having just returned from Carthage, where he was engaged yesterday in arguing the case in question. He said he was rather surprised that the jury should have released one of the defendants, but was otherwise pleased with the verdict. It appears that Samuel Cupples & Co. had a claim of about $2,000 against the firm of Fallis & Lichliter, doing business at Joplin, Mo. The firm made an assignment to Gale & Spencer, and the assets realized about thirty-three cents on the dollar. The members of the firm were Milton C. Lichliter, a young man of perhaps 23 years of age, and Mrs. E. A. Fallis, a married woman. The parties engaged in the business were Wm. H. Fallis and Norman B. Lichliter. About one year after the assignment the plaintiffs sent Mr. Glover to Joplin for the purpose of ascertaining if evidence of fraud could not be obtained in connection with the failure. He discovered that at the time the firm made its written statement, declaring itself to be worth $10,000 above all liabilities, it was in reality insolvent, and that its property had since been fraudulently conveyed. Thereupon Wm. H. Fallis and Norman B. Lichliter were indicted in the Criminal Court of this city, and at the trial the jury failed to agree, standing eight to four against Fallis, and eleven to one against Lichliter. The defendants then filed pleas in abatement to the attachment proceedings, and these pleas have been on trial before a Carthage jury for a week, resulting as stated. Mr. Glover says he will have the verdict in favor of Mrs. Fallis set aside, on the ground that Mr. Cunningham, attorney for defendants, took the witness stand himself and testified that during the criminal trials here he heard Mr. Cupples say that the house of Samuel Cupples & Co. sold to Fallis & Lichliter on the faith of the statement signed by Milton C. Lichliter and William H. Fallis, whereas an examination of the stenographic report shows—according to Mr. Glover—that Mr. Cupples said nothing of the kind. This, however, was the only method by which the defense could get the statement before the jury, as documentary evidence was not admissible. The case of the State vs. Fallis and Lichliter will come up in the Criminal Court on the 1st of May next, and Mr. Glover declares that he has collected a great deal of new evidence and will convict somebody this time.

JULIA JENKINS' HARD LUCK.

A Little Beggar Girl Goes to the House of Refuge for Begging in the Streets.

Julia Jenkins is a very bright little girl indeed. She is not more than eleven years of age, but she is probably up to more tricks of the beggar's trade than most older mendicants. For the past three years she has driven a thriving trade along the fashionable thoroughfares, and her face is probably known to every lawyer, insurance agent and clerk in the city. Julia has been so successful indeed that the other members of the family have been able to live in comfortable idleness upon the proceeds of her industry. Begging in the streets is contrary to city ordinance, and no one knew this better than Julia. In order, therefore, to cover her real business by a show of being engaged in a lawful occupation, Julia has carried a supply of cheap lead pencils under her shawl, and whenever she has had occasion to think that the eye of the police was upon her she would make a lively pretense of trying to sell her pencils. Yesterday, however, in a moment of carelessness on Julia's part, Officer Burke detected her in the act of soliciting alms in a manner that was most amenable to punishment. This morning, during the brief visit that Mayor Ewing, who has been sick for the past two days, was able to visit his office, Officer Burke brought Julia before His Honor with a statement of her previous history and her particular offense of yesterday. Julia wept bitterly, protesting that she was a vender of lead-pencils, in proof of which she exhibited a package of these which remained unsold, and not a beggar girl at all. The evidence was too strong, however, for Julia's defense, and much to her disgust she was committed to the House of Refuge.

Fire Bugs at Work.

It is rumored that the grand jury are investigating cases of wholesale arson and that some developments may be expected. Several mysterious fires have taken place in Lowell and other spots which were supposed cases of incendiarism.

A house belonging to Chas. L. Hunt, in Lowell, was lately destroyed, and a private detective, McGranahan, on looking into the case, discovered that a burglary was attempted in the neighborhood on the night of the fire. A burglar entered a house just across from the fire and found the owner sick in bed. The man was recognized and soon after he agreed to tell what he knew about the matter, if he were promised immunity. He testified before the grand jury that setting fire to houses was a regular business with him and two companions. The names of his pals he gave as William Bruffey, who is now in the Work-house, and Dick Hanley. Both of them were indicted. Having selected a place they intended to rob, one of the men was sent in the neighborhood to fire another dwelling, and the burglary was committed during the necessary excitement. Bruffey will be brought up from the Work-house and Hanley is expected to be under arrest before night.

Gambling Cases.

The only case of interest in the Second District Police Court this morning was the case of Louis Hughes, who was arrested by Officers Warren and Badger at his saloon, No. 1616 Lucas street, and charged with playing whiskey poker or freeze-out. When arrested last night at 10 o'clock Hughes was playing in company with Wm. Spyer and Louis Evans, all colored. There were chips on the table, but Hughes in his defense said that they were only used for keeping count of the games that were played and strongly argued his innocence. The gambling laws occasioned much discussion between the Judge and City Attorney. After considering the case for over half an hour the Judge took the case under advisement until to-morrow. The cases of Bud Thorn and Sanford Taylor, also charged with playing "whiskey poker," were continued until to-morrow.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

The much-continued case of Ex-Officer Cahill vs. Barth Long for assault with intent to kill is set for hearing to-day. Several other cases are docketed before it and the chances of another continuance are very favorable.

The case of East St. Louis vs. Wiggins Ferry Company has been decided by the Supreme Court in favor of the city. The decision settles the question that the city can impose a license as well as a tax on all ferries landing on their shore.

Miss Hattie J. Prottsman, aged twenty years, died at the residence of her father on Sixth street, between Illinois and St. Louis avenues, at three o'clock this morning, after a lingering illness. The funeral will take place at 2 p. m. to-morrow.

The case of John W. Renshaw vs. City of East St. Louis for $1,000, for back salary and fees, is docketed for trial in the Circuit Court in Belleville this evening. Several witnesses are in attendance, but the prospects are the case will not be called.

The State Appellate Court yesterday confirmed the decision of the Circuit Court in the $1,000 case of Thomas vs. East St. Louis for professional services rendered. The case was tried in the Circuit Court four months ago and is separate and distinct from the $2,000 judgment rendered a short time since.

The verdict of the jury in the case of M. F. Tissier vs. the city of East St. Louis has caused rejoicing among the printers, and suits against the city, in the hope of judgment for long-deferred printers' bills, will follow in a few days. H. D. O'Brien, publisher of the Eeast St. Louis Gazette, placed confidence in the city for $3,600 worth of printing, and is now making preparations to enter suit in the Circuit Court.

Bloodspots mark the stairway to the Herald office, and the bruised and battered countenance of a prominent citizen who had searched, but not in vain, for the man that printed an article in last week's paper, tells a woeful tale. The office had scarcely opened this morning when a belligerent citizen, who, had just returned to town last night, climbed the stairs and inquired for the editor. The publisher was the only occupant of the office, and shortly after the entrance of the belligerant citizen a short scuffle ensued, the door opened suddenly and the man with the grievance fell down stairs.

BELLEVILLE.

The County Commissioners propose to increase the capacity of the County Farm.

Mayor McLean of East St. Louis is in Belleville looking after the interests of the city.

Rev. A. H. Tavis, of Springfield, Mo., will preach next Sunday at the First M. E. Church.

The boys and girls, classes of the Belleville Gymnasium will enter upon a new term April 1.

Bernhard Martin, an old citizen of Belleville, died last night, aged 57. He will be buried to-morrow at 2 p. m.

Mr. Clem Beveiot, of East St. Louis, is in Belleville looking after a location for the purpose of manufacturing his improved grain separator.

The suit of M. F. Tissier against the City of East St. Louis was decided in favor of the plaintiff for the sum of $910. During the trial some pertinent questions were asked the officials of East St. Louis, viz.: what they had done with the money collected in the last eighteen months for taxes and licenses, and as they are not accountable to anybody the questions seemed irrelevant to the case.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Twelve burial certificates were issued to-day.

Mayor Ewing was able to come up to his office for an hour to-day.

Receipts at the City Treasury to-day are: From Boiler Inspector, $125; from City Collector, $3,005 42; from Inspector of Weights and Measures, $39 75; from City Marshal on account of the First District Police Court, $60; from Clerk of Second District Police Court, $1 50.

Boiler Inspector John Holland has received from the printer bound copies of the new ordinance regulating his department, which was passed during the present session of the Municipal Assembly and approved by Mayor Ewing February 23, 1882. Copies of the ordinance will be supplied to applicants on demand. The Boiler Inspector particularly directs the attention of engineers to the fourteenth section of the new ordinance.

THE FLOODED DISTRICTS.

The Work of Relief and Issuing Rations Still Going On.

Reports of the Situation---More Aid from the Government---Bright Prospects.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

VICKSBURG, MISS., March 30.—In the last twenty-four hours the gauge at this point shows a decline of one and a quarter inches. This indicates an excess of about a quarter of an inch decline over last week, and word is had from above and below here that the river at other points is declining at an equal rate. The telegrams to the POST-DISPATCH yesterday told of those districts where dry land had made its appearance and work commenced in putting in the crops. There is now 200 acres above water on Cuber Place, in Eagle Bend, 250 on Peeler Place and 150 on Butler Place. The water is falling at the rate of two inches per day, and there has been a total fall during the past week of fifteen inches. The deepest water now in Eagle Bend, except in ditches and low places, is from ten to fifteen inches. Three new breaks occurred on Challulah Place on Tuesday last. Some dry places are reported at Shiplan, and a few others in the vicinity. The current is not so rapid through the Louisiana crevases as it was a few days ago, nor the volume of water so great. The heaviest break is one at Alsatia, where the water is ten feet deep. In the Davis Bend section a large piece of land has come above the water. In Bedford Place, which is five miles long, about 400 acres have appeared. Bayon Vidal and Roundaway Bayou have many dry places showing up, which proves that the flood and back-waters are declining. The Citizens' Committee have telegraphed to the Secretary of War to the effect that the demands of the destitute require 75,000 pounds of meat and 150,000 pounds of meal to be shipped to Memphis and a like quantity to Vicksburg. It is estimated that this amount will carry the people about fifteen days longer. The telegram is signed by Gov. Lowrey. A response to the telegram said that provisions had been shipped, but not the amount asked for in the telegram. Gov. Lowrey, in company with several army officers, took a trip up the river to look over the condition of the country. He said that in many places the levees were broken, land under water and the stock and people congregated together on the levees. The section of country visited by the Governor is the worst in all of the inundated districts above here. Word received here from Helena, Ark., says that provisions are being rapidly distributed, but that the supply is running very low. The suffering continues unabated at points above and below, the water having declined very little, notwithstanding the report which was sent to Memphis to the contrary. It has now been fifty-seven days since the commencement of the flood, and the total decline of water has been only nine inches thus far. The cattle are still dying from the gnats and starvation. In some places the loss on cattle will reach 75 per cent. There are about 200 people around Trenton, and they have only received half rations for some time past.

Reports from Memphis say that the river is declining steadily and now shows 34 feet and 1 inch on the gauge, a decline of 25 inches from the highest point this season. The outlook here is very encouraging. Dispatches from New Orleans report the river stationary. A special from Troy, La., says that the water there is now 3 feet and 10 inches above the flood of 1874. The water there is rising, and much fear is felt for the future. Reports from Little Rock, Ark., are favorable. The river is stationary at Natchez, with a tendency downward.

Business on the Levee.

An unwonted air of activity prevailed in the vicinity of the Anchor Line wharfboats this morning. Drays and wagons of every description were coming and going, the mates shouting and the negroes singing. The regular landings of the Anchor Line are, with a few exceptions, being made between here and Vicksburg now. Orders from Southern storekeepers along the river are coming in fast to their St. Louis merchants, and the boats will be taxed to their utmost capacity in the next few days. Planters from the overflowed regions are coming in the city daily, arranging with their merchants for the coming crop. Extensions and accommodations will be on a large scale this spring from the merchants to the planters.

Rations Issued.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Twenty thousand rations will be issued at Memphis and the same amount at Tiptonville for the destitute in Tennessee, and 80,000 will be sent to Memphis for Mississippi.

A DOWNWARD CAREER.

The Sister-in-Law of Junius Brutus Booth Commits Suicide.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 30.—The remains of a remarkable, handsome woman, known as Mrs. Belle Lamb, were taken to Massachusetts yesterday over the Lake Shore road. Her death was caused by an overdose of morphine, thought to have been taken with suicidal intent. The sister of the woman, it is said, was the wife of Junius Brutus Booth, a brother of Edwin Booth. Up to four years ago she was a resident of New York. Becoming infatuated with the histrionic reputation of the Booth family, she studied for the stage, but failed of success and stepped from the footlights into a house furnished for her regardless of expense by one who had become infatuated with her charms. Shortly after she moved to Chicago, where she has since lived. Her sister Agnes has made many ineffectual attempts to reclaim her and regain her from her way.

TERRIBLE TORNADO.

It Levels Houses, Barns, Trees and Everything in Its Track.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., March 30.—The tornado which passed over Lee county Monday extended from Freeman, three miles west of Loachopoka, along Long Hatchie Creek. Houses, barns and trees in the track of the storm were leveled. The residence of Mr. Alvis was completely demolished. Mr. Alvis was fatally injured. John Taylor, a hired hand, was instantly killed, and Wm. Thomas had his collar-bone broken. On Spencer Moore's place six houses were destroyed. In one there were six negroes. The wind lifted the house, excepting the floor, and carried it off, leaving the negroes unharmed.

Mystery of a Murder.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PAUL, MINN., March 30.—An impenetrable murder mystery is engaging the attention of the people of Mankato. On the 19th inst. the body of Gustave Anderson was found on Eagle Lake Ridge, near that city, with evidence of foul play. Andrew Hanson was arrested on suspicion, and yesterday had an examination before Judge Hitchcock. The prosecution believed they had a sure thing, but Hanson proved that at the time the murder was committed he was dead drunk at a Mankato saloon. In his case whisky did not prove a curse, for he was discharged from custody. Now the case is more complex than ever, and it is doubtful whether the murderer will ever be discovered.

A LEGAL LULL.

Slackening Up of the Mill Under the Dome —Term Closing.

Legal business under the dome to-day clearly indicated the close of the term in the Circuit Court. There was a marked absence of the activity prevailing when the legal mill is in full operation. Two of the courts were not in session, and in the other divisions but little of public interest was transpiring. Judge Adams' court, No. 1, adjourned for the term after all appeals to the higher court had been perfected. Judge Horner sat in room No. 2 disposing of the law docket and taking all motions as submitted. Judge Boyle's court stood adjourned until Saturday, when appeals from that division can be perfected. Judge Thayer did not hold court to day, but will sit to-morrow for the law docket, after which adjournment will be taken for the term. The April term commences next Monday morning.

ROLLER SKATING.

Only one more night left for roller skating at the Rink. Messrs. Goodall and Smith, the champion roller skaters of the U. S., will give an exhibition to-night. Don't miss it.

WANTED.—Ten good machinery molders at Smith, Beggs & Ranken Machine Works, Main and Exchange streets.

CANUCKS ON A TOUR.

A Delegation of Canadian Officials and Business Men in Town.

A large party of Canadian officials and business men arrived in the city this morning and registered at the Southern and Lindell Hotels. They are here on a pleasure tour only, and will spend the entire day in carriages visiting the city institutions and places of amusement. Recently the people of Chicago extended to these Canadian gentlemen, representing the cities of Quebec, Montreal and Toronto, an invitation to visit the lake town and witness the transaction of business on the American plan. About 300 responded to the invitation, and spent several days in Chicago. Yesterday the party separated, one-third returning home, one-third going to Winnipeg, Manitoba, and the remainder coming to St. Louis, as a portion of them were determined not to leave this country without visiting a really great city. The company contains several members of the corporation of Montreal, including the Board of Aldermen, the Park Commissioner and Water Commissioner. The Lord Mayor had intended to accompany the party here, but was taken sick in Chicago and had to return home. One of the Montreal representatives leaned over the bar at the Lindell Hotel office this morning and said to Capt. Haines:

"I wouldn't live in Chicago for $100 a day."

"Don't the people there keep up with the procession?" inquired the Captain, earnestly.

"Beg pardon! what procession?"

"I mean are they not fast enough?"

"Well, if judged by the rate of travel made by their lumbering vehicles, they are too slow. So we came down here to see the sights."

This little bunch of taffy made the Captain "catch on" firmly, and he immediately proceeded to map out a route of inspection through the city that would probably require three weeks to entirely cover.

At the Southern the Canadian officials were inclined at first to object to the hack fares, but were excessively polite, and took their carriages with great good-humor. They will visit Shaw's Garden, Lafayette Park, Forest and Tower Grove, the Race Track, Fair Grounds, the Water Tower, Four Courts, City Hall and Court-house. In appearance the gentlemen are all rosy-cheeked and bear the impress of good health and good living. They take very kindly to the American hotel regulations, and pronounce themselves highly pleased with their little tour.

The following are registered at the Southern:

Montreal—Henry Baimer, Chas. Slackmeyer, T. D. Hood, C. A. Procter, J. Grenier, M. Laurent, F. J. St. Charles, H. Jeanette, R. D. Haig, S. St. Ange, H. Labelle, Wm. Stewart, C. Drummond, F. E. Nelson, D. T. Teis, W. Reid, S. Cookson, Henry Lyman, M. T. McGeat, H. D. Rasbard, John Browning, A. L. Desambrauer. Thomas Wilson, M. F. Johnston, W. G. McConnel, Louis Lesage. James Williamson.

Quebec—T. A. Ledrott, T. Ledroit, F. Sirnard, W. G. Breanet, J. A. Maotions, O. Rochette, F. Peachy, C. Ballarge, A. F. Hunt, F. Burbarby, James Shea, Francis Guerin, T. Shea, G. W. Lemon, William McWilliam, H. A. Drummond and James Lawler.

Toronto—James Carlysle, James F. Mathews and Morley Punshon.

The following are at the Lindell Hotel:

Montreal—M. Brossard, L. Tourville, L. E. Beauchamp, L. La Buge, A. Dubres, L. H. Senecal and Chas. Barsalon.

The party leaves at 7 o'clock this evening for Canada.

Died of Heart Disease.

This morning, as Edward Walch was eating his breakfast at his home, No. 2709 Adams street, preparatory to leaving home for the labors of the day, he was stricken with heart disease and fell back in his chair dead. He had been a common laborer and left his wife and three children in poor circumstances. The Coroner has been notified of the case.

Pooling Arrangement Between Western Union and Mutual Union.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Stocks are strong and higher. There is a heavy foreign demand for bonds and a better borrowing demand for stocks. The new board of directors of the Mutual Union Telegraph Company will be elected to-day. The majority of them will be friends of Gould and the Western Union. This gives the latter company control of its late rival. It is probable a pooling arrangement will be made which will give the Mutual Union Company a fund sufficient to pay interest on its bonds. The remainder of its earnings bid fair to go into the Western Union Treasury. The control of the Mutual Union Company is understood to carry with it the control of the Dominion Company of Canada, so that within a short time the Western Union will control the business of the United States and Canada, and in connection with the cable companies realize large profits on foreign and South American business. Louisville and Nashville advanced at the close yesterday on a scramble to cover shorts. The foreign buying of stock continues. The demand for St. Paul continues. Twenty miles of Texas and Colorado road will be turned over to the company April 1. The Construction Company will receive $400,000 in stocks and bonds. The first division of 100 miles is graded. The banks are buying heavily of Government 4s and 4½s. The advance is thought to indicate higher prices for first-class railroad bonds. The directors of the Alton and Terre Haute Company have postponed the declaration of a dividend on the preferred stock until next week. The dividend will be payable in May.

EARLY DEALINGS.

NEW YORK, March 30, 11 A. M.—Stock market opened strong and ⅛@1⅛ higher, Ohio and Mississippi, Hannibal and St. Joseph preferred, Houston and Texas, St. Paul preferred and Indiana, Bloomington and Western prominent in the advance. Manhattan Beach opened 3¾ higher. In the early dealings, after a general advance of ⅛@1, the latter Western Union, a decline of ¼@1¼ took place Louisville and Nashville, Michigan Central, Western Union and Northwestern leading, while Reading advanced 1⅛.

Wheat in Europe.

Latest private market circulars from Europe are still bearish in their remarks on wheat. An Amsterdam report says: "Wheat was dull and transactions of but retail character. No transactions reported with United States or Calcutta. Forward business is purely speculative. The tendency is for lower prices." From Glasgow comes the following: "The weather has become quite springlike and vegetation is making rapid strides, not only in these islands but all through Northern Europe. The growing wheat plant continues to be in splendid and very forward condition, and the prospects so far are most favorable." And from Liverpool this report: "A considerable difference in present and future shipment values in California is still noticeable, and as the season advances very rapidly and favorably, both in Britain and the Continent, with large supplies floating, it is difficult to conceive a speedy and lasting improvement. The quantity now afloat amounts to 3,000,000 quarters, as against 2,400,000 this time last year.

Still Decreasing.

A private telegram from C. A. King & Co., Toledo, to E. M. Samuel & Sons says: "Visible wheat decreased about 800,000 bushels. Corn nearly a million and a half. Cables just received make new Indian wheat crop forty million bushels exportable surplus this coming season." Another dispatch states that the decrease at the seaboard is 460,000 bushels wheat and 650,000 bushels corn, and that wheat on passage has decreased 600,000 bushels and corn 140,000 bushels. An unfortunate and unnecessary error was made yesterday in stating that the "visible" of wheat had "increased" 800,000 bushels. Of course it should have been decreased.

Rust in Texas Wheat.

Messrs. R. C. Greer & Co. have received late advices from Texas that rust has made its appearance in the growing wheat of that State. Farmers are complaining bitterly of the damage that has already been done, and fear that the crop will not turn out near so well as they anticipated a short time ago. The parties who report this are backing it up by buying wheat here on long options.

The Markets.

FORENOON SESSION.

Flour—Receipts 5,426 brls. There was no quotable change in prices, but the market was certainly easier and in buyers' favor, besides being dull, in sympathy with wheat. We quote: Fancy $6 40@6 45; choice $6 05@6 20; family $5 80@5 90; xxx $5 40@5 50; xx $4 95@5 10; x $4 95@4 55@; superfine $3 95@4 20; fine $3 60@3 85; favorite brands 15@25c higher. Patents $7 40@8 25.

Wheat—Receipts 3,844 sks., 15,300 bu. Lower, as telegraphic advices reported declines elsewhere, and the weather was still favorable for the growing crop. Weakness prevailed in futures, but the feeling still rather unsettled and operators working cautiously. Closed firm at declines of ⅛ for April, ⅜ for May, ⅜ for June and July and ¼ for year, but Aug. ¼ higher than at close of yesterday. Grades moved with more freedom, but only at considerable declines, at which millers and order buyers took hold. Spot No. 2 red sold at $1 27⅞@1 26¾, closing with round lots held at $1 27¼ and $1 27 bid: April at $1 27; May at $1 29⅝@1 29, closing at $1 29⅜; June at $1 23⅞@22⅜, closing at $1 23⅛; July at $1 09@1 07⅞@1 08, closing at $1 08⅛; August at $1 04⅞@1 05½; year at $1 04@4⅜, closing at $1 04¼ bid. No. 3 red sold at $1 20 this and $1 18½@19 E. side; No. 4 offered at $1 14½ in U. $1 13 bid for this side; rejected sold at 92½; No. 2 Mediterranean held at $1 28 in C., bid $1 26½; for No. 3 do $1 20 bid; No. 3 spring salable at $1 04 and held at $1 08.

Corn—Receipts 1,134 sks, 44,500 bu. The decline in wheat and generally lower prices at other points had some effect upon futures, but they weakened only slightly, having few sellers and steady buyers, and closing ⅛c higher for March, June, July and August, unchanged for April and year, ⅛c lower for May and ⅛c off for September, as compared with yesterday's close. Grades were in active request and firm, No. 2 white-mixed advancing, as it was scarce. Spot No. 2 mixed sold at 68¼@67⅞, closing at 67½ for regular and 68@68¼ for special elevator; April at 67⅞; May at 68⅛; June at 68⅞@68⅝; July at 69; August at 69¼@⅜; Sept. at 68⅞; year at 51⅜@52; for March 67⅞ bid. Spot No. 2 white mixed sold at 77½ in C., 77⅛@⅜ E. side, 78@¼ in E.; May 76½; June at 76; July at 76½; rejected do at 73½ this side and 74 in E.; rejected at 65⅞@66 in U.; 66⅞ in V., 67 in E., 64½@⅜ in St. L.; no-grade salable at 57½.

Oats—Receipts 2,742 sks, 8,000 bu. The value of cash bounded upward again, as there were urgent buyers and but little offering, so that the high prices bid failed to draw any. Futures opened lower and then advanced, but had more sellers than buyers at the top prices. Spot No. 2 sold at 49 in U. and 49⅛ bid for E., 50 for St. L.; May at 46½ to 46⅞@⅝; June at 45⅞@⅛; July at 38@37⅞; bids of 46⅛ for April, 38 for year. Rejected in St. L. sold at 49 and for E. side 47 was bid.

Rye—Receipts —— sks, 500 bu. No change in price to note, but demand small and indifferent and some holders pressing their stock for sale. Grade No. 2 sold this side at 81; for reject 80 was bid.

Barley—Receipts 120 sks, 500 bu. No demand at all and market entirely nominal. We quote: Rejected 60@70; medium 85@90; prime 85@90; choice to fancy 95@$1 07½; Canada $1@1 25.

Hay—Receipts 175 tons. The demand for shipment and feeding is unabated, and prices rule strong, with ready sale for all offerings. Sales this side: Prime prairie $13; mixed $21; choice timothy $23@24. East side: Prime to choice timothy $20@20 50 to $22.

Millfeed—Bran was higher and in demand, but offerings small. Sacked sold at mill at $1 05.

Provisions were rendered somewhat easier by a decline in Chicago, but this weakness was shown more by an offishness in buyers and by some sales being kept private as to terms, holders were stiff, as the supply here was small and the demand kept up well. Standard mess pork jobbed at $17 60; round lots of cash, March and April at that, with $17 37½ bid for cash and $17 30 for March; June salable at $17 40. Prime steam lard is quotable at 10¾. Loose dry salt sold at steady rates. Shoulders at 6.60, long clear at 9.60, clear ribs at 9.70, short clear at 10 and clear ribs up-country at 9½, freight 13. Packed bacon short clear brought 10.85 @⅞ and loose clear ribs 10.30; packed shoulders worth 7⅛@¾, and 10.45 bid and refused for clear ribs. S. C. hams 11½@13 for plain and canvassed. Tallow 7@7¼, according to quality; grease tallow 6¾, cake 7⅛@¾. Breakfast bacon 12½@14. Grease 4@5 for brown, 5@6c for yellow, 6½@8c for white. Beef—Extra mess $12 00@16 00 per brl, according to brand; $8 50 per half brl; dried 12@13c per pound. Fresh smoked tongues $4 50@5 00 per doz. Salt—Lake $1 25 per brl. Ground alum $1 10@1 15 per sack.

Highwines—Steady. Sales 79 brls at $1 17. Cincinnati and Peoria $1 16; Chicago $1 18.

Lead—Soft Missouri held at $4 60 and sellers will not let go below that price, but the best bid is $4 50, which is also offered for May.

Leaf Tobacco.

Offerings were small on the breaks, consisting of 30 hhds and 1 box. Such leaf as was on sale was mainly nondescript and not suitable for the wants of buyers, but all lugs were quick sale and stiff in price. Sales were 8 hhds, 8 hhds were passed and bids rejected on 14 hhds and 1 box.

We quote: Old crop—Common dark lugs $ @5; common leaf $ 50@7; [illegible] $ @ 0 [illegible] @10. New crop Burley—Common lugs $4@5; extra do $5 50@6; common leaf $5 50@7 50; medium do $8 00@10 00; good $12@13; choice do $14@ . Wrapping leaf—Common half bright $10@12; medium do $15@18; medium bright $20@25; good do $25@35; fine bright $40@65. Inferior, unsound and light weight hhds sell at about 25@50c ₩ 100 lbs less.

CATTLE—The demand from the different classes of buyers fair, while the supply was insignificantly small and mainly of medium to fair native steers, which sold at sight at exorbitant prices, as will be seen by glancing at the sales given below. Eastern shippers had to curtail their operations considerably, which was a disappointment to them. Local speculators and interior shippers could not get half the stock they desired. Yesterday afternoon sixteen native steers of 1,546 lbs average brought $7 25—the highest in years. The steers were only two years old. Stock and feeding steers scarce and wanted. Scalawags steady. Milch cows with calves in demand. Ruling quotations firm.

THE Alf. Stevens, Capt. Brucken, leaves for the Obion River Friday.

CAPT. HENRY LEYHE is again in the Grafton trade with the Spread Eagle.

THE Raven will take a cargo of iron ore to the Ohio on her three barges.

THE Fearless arrived and returned to Cairo for another tow. John Poe is in command.

THE river is falling slowly, with 17 feet by the gauge. Business is picking up a little.

THE Commonwealth, Capt. Samuel McPheeters, departs for Vicksburg to-day at 4 p. m.

THE Pittsburg will leave the iron pile to-day with 500 tons of ore, 300 tons miscellaneous freight and twenty people.

THE Gem City is at her old tricks. She made the run to Alton on her last trip in one hour and thirty-nine minutes. Hard to beat.

CAPT. JAS. GOOD, of the River Commission service, has returned from the Ohio and is giving his attention to fitting out the new iron steamer now nearing completion at the South St. Louis boat yard.

JOHN E. ROLAND and T. J. ROCKWELL, two noted steamboat clerks, have purchased the large restaurant No. 211, 213 and 215 North Sixth street, from Mr. Thatcher and taken command, with a view of keeping up with the procession.

CAPT. JOHN P. KEISER is in Louisville, preparing to bring the new steamer City of Cairo to St. Louis. She will arrive here next Tuesday, or sooner, and after receiving her furniture and outfit leaves for Vicksburg. The new steamer, which is an improvement on the City of Vicksburg, will cause a sensation along the Mississippi.

Rescue No. 2.

The Illinois and St. Louis Railroad Company's new steam tug, Rescue No. 2, made a trial trip yesterday, going as far south as the Vulcan Iron Works, Carondelet, and returning to the landing, foot of Pine street, at a quarter before one o'clock. A number of invited guests were aboard, all of whom spoke in the highest terms of the performance of the staunch little steamer. The time consumed in traversing the fifteen miles was one hour and a half, which, taking into consideration the fact that the machinery is new and not working smoothly, gives promise of remarkable speed. The hull of the Rescue No. 2 is 95 feet long by 20 feet beam and 9 feet hold. She has two 10 flued boilers 22 feet long by 44 inches in diameter and two engines 18 inches in diameter by 20 inches stroke. Her wheel is seven and one half feet in diameter. She is supplied with steam capstan and all improved appliances necessary to the equipment of a first-class tug. Her power is greater than that of any craft of her kind in the harbor, and her officers naturally anticipate great things of her. The hull, which is of wood, was built at Metropolis, Ill., and towed to St. Louis, where she was completed. The boiler and sheet-iron work was done by the Fulton Works, Rohan Bros. proprietors, and the machinery and wheel are from Clute Bros. & Co., Schenectady, N. Y. The following are the officers: Captain, James McClelan; engineer, Robert Woods; mate, John Rivers; agent, A. T. Pritchett. Mr. P. T. Burke, the popular secretary of the company, was aboard the craft, and expressed himself as highly pleased with the performance of the tug.

ST. LOUIS CONFERENCE.

Elders of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Session.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the St. Louis Conference of the M. E. Church was exclusively of a statistical nature, various reports from the ministers present being submitted. The Conference, after the devotional services, then adjourned. Immediately succeeding the adjournment was celebrated the Sunday school anniversary. At 8:30 this morning the conference met for the transaction of the second day's work. Bishop Warren presided. As had been announced, a half hour prayer-meeting was held, conducted by F. Ely, in which a large congregation participated. Next in order was the report of the Sedalia Collegiate Institute, which was presented and referred to the Educational Committee. The time for preaching the missionary sermon was, upon motion, changed to this evening.

The "Twentieth Question" was next called, viz.: "Was the character of each preacher examined?"

The character of T. B. Hagerty was passed, that gentleman then reading a report of the St. Louis District. It was next ordered that the pastors report in detail their various benevolent collections, also the number of members and conversions.

The following elders reported, and their characters were "passed:" E. C. Pelton, J. W. Newcomb, J. T. Carrington, G. W. Hughes, A. Jump, F. M. Stickney, L. Hallock, L. C. Sappenfield, C. S. Renelle and T. S. Biggs. The character of B. St. James Fry was passed also.

The following transfers were announced: W. K. Marshall, to the Minnesota Conference, and L. M. Vernon to the Italy Conference.

The character of O. M. Stewart was next passed, and he read a report of the Sedalia District.

The following elders reported and their characters passed, viz.: A. H. Heinlem, S. Alexander, I. V. Pierce, I. K. Tuttle, Wm. De Motte, J. S. Porter, J. Entwistle, J. H. Gillespie, H. H. Ashbaugh, W. G. Cowan, J. B. Daniel, A. P. Sullaway and S. Fry.

The character of J. B. Van Pelter was passed; that also of W. Short, the latter being granted upon application a supernumerary relation. J. H. Harris was announced as having been transferred to the Arkansas Conference.

The character of Wm. Stephens was passed, and he read a report of the Kansas City district. The following elders from that district reported their characters passed: H. G. Jackson, J. W. Johnson, L. C. Carpenter, C. V. Ceniss, F. Exly, A. H. Parker, R. R. Peirce, A. Anderson, G. V. Houts, C. J. W. Jones, S. R. Reese and E. J. King, Jacob Miller, T. E. Robinson, E. H. Hopkins, J. W. Finlay, W. R. Russell, J. W. Cowden, J. R. M. Lunbeck, B. F. Poole, A. R. Tevis, R. W. Memasler, J. W. Haymes, and R. H. Hanson. J. M. Haymes' character was passed, and he was located at his own request. The character of F. H. Small was passed, and he read a report of the Missouri District. One of the most interesting events of the morning's session was the report of F. H. Small (col'd), presiding elder of the Missouri District of colored preachers. The monotonous reading of the report was occasionally lit up by bursts of eloquence that received prolonged applause from the audience, black and white indiscriminately.

"Just thirty years ago," said Rev. Small, "I stood in St. Louis with shackles on my hands and feet, on my way to the South, to be sold, like Joseph, into bondage. Dark were the clouds that lowered over my head, and no gleam of sunshine lit up my dreary way. To-day I stand in the sunlight of God's love, the shackles sundered from me by the fierce lightning of His just wrath. Where then the thistles of ignorance beset my path, to-day the flowers of faith and promise blossom innumerable in my way. The light of God's love has burst upon me with entrancing beauty, and I pray that I may be but the center of a system to the farthest ends of which the light may be redispersed. In every breath of spring I hear the whisper of a glorious summer. On the hillsides, in the language of beautiful flowers, I plainly read the promise of the angels. In every roar of the mountain torrent I hear the greatness, and in the silver ripple of the brooklet I hear the gentleness of God."

At the conclusion of Rev. Dr. Small's remarks it was announced that the reports of the elders would be continued this afternoon and that the missionary sermon would be delivered to-night.

On motion the conference adjourned until 2:30 to-day, when the examination of committees, etc., was taken up.

FINE SHIRTS
Made to Order!

The demand for our Shirts during the past thirty days has been so great that we have been compelled to almost double our manufacturing force. We attribute it to the fact that our improved method of making Shirts to order pleases everybody. We not only make our shirts durable but finish them in an artistic manner, as we have the finest Laundry in St. Louis.

"Last but Not Least."

Our Prices (on the same quality of goods) are as low if not lower than any house in the city.

CHECK-RAISING.

Richard D. Palmer Tries to Defraud a Bank by an Old Dodge.

A warrant was sworn out to-day in the Court of Criminal Correction by the cashier of the Fourth National Bank of this city against Richard D. Palmer, a rather dull-looking man of about 50 years of age, for forgery. It appears that Palmer went into the clothing store at No. 210 N. Fourth street this morning, and, after purchasing a few articles, presented a check drawn in his favor by H. Wells, cashier of the Alexander County Bank of Cairo, on the Fourth National Bank of this city. One of the proprietors of the store suspected the check was not all right from its appearance, so he sent a clerk to the bank with it. The cashier immediately telegraphed to Wells at Cairo asking him if the check was good and drawn for the proper amount. In about an hour a reply came back that the check was for $2 instead of $200. From this it appeared that Palmer had raised the check by adding two ciphers to the numbers and by inserting the word "hundred" between the words "two" and "dollars" in the body of the check. The work was bunglingly done, and was easily detected. When the check was sent to the bank Palmer seemed not to suspect anything but sat quietly in the store over an hour awaiting the return of the clerk. The cashier immediately swore out a warrant, and Palmer was arrested. Upon his person were found two other checks, one for $200 and the other for $300, which had probably also been raised from $2 and $3.

DRESSMAKING.—To the Ladies of St. Louis: I, the undersigned, beg leave to inform you that I am now teaching D. W. Moody's newly invented tailor system of dresscutting, dated February 10, 1882. It cuts without fitting or basting. You can make a dress for yourself under my instructions while learning. A perfect button-hole and the finishing parts of dressmaking taught with the system also. I am also teaching a new combination trimming system for trimming ladies' dresses—the only system of the kind in existence. The charges are moderate and we guarantee perfect satisfaction to every one. We have agreed, so that all may be profited, to adopt the installment plan; payments of 25 cents a week will be taken. All we ask is a visit from you. Call early and see us at work. Taught at my residence or at your own home; reduced rates; open from 7 a. m. till 9 p. m. Respectfully, LAGGARD LAW.

The Famous Case of Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce Duplicated Several Times in St. Louis.

Lawsuits Which Have Been Pending in the Courts For Nearly Thirty Years.

The Court Expenses, Fees and Costs Which Have Eaten Up Large Estates.

The Glasgow, Mitchell, Tyler, Christy, Bobb, Hammond and Other Cases—The "Bobb Coffin"—Splendid Samples of the Law's Delay.

Of the thousands of cases which yearly pass in review in the various courts of St. Louis, a number have a history that extends back into the archaic age of St. Louis jurisprudence. These cases have become routine, and bob up serenely, like the celebrated case of Jarndyce and Jarndyce at every term of court. Nobody exactly understands any of those cases and nobody ever will. The real point of the case is so carefully concealed beneath innumerable layers of legal conventionalities in the way of petitions, statements, demurrers, bills, cross-bills, answers, rejoinders, issues and innumerable writs with intangible meanings, that no human being has ever been endowed with an intellect broad enough or with a life long enough to thoroughly understand the whole case. No one, either, is foolish enough to attempt it. Moreover, the case is never presented as a whole. A case of this kind is adjudicated in sections, or rather the legal excrescences are passed upon first. These, however, increase in geometrical ratio despite the legal pruning. So, that once a case becomes historic its conclusion is determined solely by the amount of property involved.

THE GLASGOW-BAKER CASE.

The oldest case now in the courts of St. Louis is the one known as the Glasgow and Baker case. It began in 1833, and was the outgrowth of the provision that every sixteenth section should be set aside for school purposes. In the spring of 1833 the Judge of the County Court, having considered this old law, pronounced it good and appointed a commission, consisting of William Melbrun, William Glasgow, Jr., and W. C. Taylor, to take possession of this parcel of land, which is now bounded by Lindell avenue, Sarah and Olive streets. The commissioners brought six suits against persons who had acquired possession of this property. The possessors laughed at the law, alleged that they occupied "common field lots of Grand Prairie common fields," and were happy. As time passed on, five of the possessors established their claims to the disputed property. The cases passed through all the courts and in each instance the commissioners were defeated. One case alone remained. It had lain in abeyance from 1853 to 1870. In that year, Mr. Glasgow, representing the commission, brought up the old suit against Peter Lindell. Lindell having died, Mr Baker, being one of his heirs, became the defendant. The tortuous course of this case thereafter illustrates the difference of view which great minds sometimes take of legal questions. Before Judge Knight, in the Circuit Court, the plaintiffs recovered judgment on the very same issues on which the five cases before had been lost. The case was then carried to the Supreme Court, where judgment was reversed and the case remanded back to Judge Knight. This unseemly and impertinent proceeding on the part of the Supreme Court was very properly rebuked by Judge Knight, who again found for plaintiff. The case was again appealed to the Supreme Court, and again reversed and returned to Judge Knight. The Judge was one of those men who had rather be right than President, and again he found for plaintiff. Another appeal followed, and again the decision of the inferior court was reversed and the case remanded; but poor Judge Knight, apprehending that the case would be returned, has committed suicide. His ermine has fallen on other shoulders, and the celebrated case of Glasgow vs. Baker will confront his successor at the May term of the Circuit Court. The disputed property originally in question amounted to about $1,000,000; and in the last case title to thirty acres of land valued at $150,000 was passed on. It is estimated that $190,000 has been expended in this case for lawyers' fees, court fees, transcribing, etc. The plaintiff's attorneys were to be paid 25 per cent of the gains, and, as a large part of the property was compromised, they were not entirely without recompense. A peculiarity of this case is that of all the persons who had anything to do with it at its beginning only one is now alive. At every term of court some one connected with it dies. The last time it came up it was ex-Governor Polk, and Mr. Glover was very sick. This fatality has been so constant that the lawyers engaged on it have come to regard it with a vague feeling of superstition. The case will probably go to the Supreme Court, which will take from three to five years. The probability is that it will continue to gyrate between the Circuit and Supreme Courts to the end of time, or, at all events, till the $150,000 yet remaining becomes exhausted.

THE MITCHELL CASE.

Another case, about which every "oldest inhabitant" knows something, is that of Wm. Mitchell. It is a case so complicated that the one preceding is by comparison axiomatic. It is a breeder of famous litigations, the well known Christy and the Tyler cases being buds on this parent forest tree. It would not be a rash statement to say that 10,000 people had been interested in it in one way and another. Innumerable people have been born into it, hundreds have married into it, and as many more purchased into it or been forced into it against their will, while a few have died out of it. Away back in territorial times Louis La Beaume conveyed to William Chambers certain property in North St. Louis, covering what is now Shande's addition. Of this property Chambers sold one-third to Thomas Wright and one-third to Wm. Christy. In 1802 a new survey was made which the Supreme Court adjudged took precedence of all others. This survey added a strip of land 47 chains and 11 links by 6 chains and 23 links to the original purchase of Chambers. This property, about 400 feet in width, extends from Howard street to Rocky Branch The addition, if there had been nothing in the way, would have passed in equal parts to the heirs of Chambers, Wright and Christy. But this property was thickly settled by people who had acquired title under the survey of 1813. The four heirs of Wright, representing one-third of the contested property, and six of the heirs of Christy, representing six-eighths of one-third, united their claims in the person of D. D. Mitchell, while two of the Christy heirs branched off and ran a circus of their own, known as the Christy litigations, and the one heir of Chambers, Mary L. Tyler, also contested on her own responsibility. In February, 1857, D. D. Mitchell brought suit to recover fourteen-twenty-fourths of the property in question. This property was probably worth over $100,000. Separate suits had to be brought to oust each of the claimants, and not less than one hundred cases were instituted, and in each case there were from five to thirty defendants. The defendants, moreover, were constantly changing by virtue of birth, death and marriage. Among the defendants may be seen the names of the Mullanphys, Benoists, Todds, and, ramifying through them and their descendants, most of the wealthy families of St. Louis. Dozens and dozens of suits were commenced during the past twenty-five years, yet other dozens still remain, many of which are against the Mullanphy heirs. So unwieldy has the case become that transcript now costs $900. At least one-third of this splendid property has been eaten up in litigation, and regularly at every term of the Circuit Court the lawyers take a large bite out of the rapidly disappearing estate. The case is no nearer an adjustment than it was twenty-five years ago.

THE TYLER CASE.

Mary L. Tyler derived her title to one-third of the accession of the survey of 1852 from being the only heir of Wm. Chambers. In 1857 she brought twenty-five suits against as many claims, each of which was contested by from fifteen to twenty-five defendants. Year by year the litigation went on. Some cases were compromised, others were won by the death of defendants, or for other cause. Among the contestants may be mentioned many of the heirs of Mullanphy. Some years ago a test case was taken to the Supreme Court, which was decided in favor of Mrs. Tyler. It now only remains for the Circuit Court to enter judgment on all the other cases. This will settle the title. Then may come further litigation for possession. The titles of the present occupants are of every imaginable kind, tax titles and squatters' claims being especially numerous. The court costs in this case are about $10,000, while lawyers' fees will raise the figures to at least $25,000, and probably more.

THE CHRISTY CASES.

Hardly less known are the Christy cases. Mrs. Susan P. Christy, representing one-twelfth of the original property in question, has brought thirty-three suits since 1857. The Clerk's record shows that the case was "continued" year after year or was "laid over." An occasional "answer" was filed, and in 1882 "death of certain defendants was suggested and an order of review entered." One-half of the property involved has been spent in litigation, and still the war goes on. One peculiarity of these cases seems to be that the statute of limitation stands quietly by and never steps in to put a quietus to the long-drawn out litigation.

THE BOBB CASE.

The Bobb case is also historic. In 1845 Hannah Letcher quitted this world, leaving certain real estate witnin Walnut and Market and Sixth and Ninth streets, valued at $100,000, since increased in value to $500,000. Hannah left her worldly possession to Mary H. Bobb and children then living. Charles Bobb was named trustee and remained in that position till February, 1870, when he was superseded by a receiver, S. D. Porter. In 1869 J. H. Bobb instituted suit against Chas. Bobb. J. H. was the son of Mary, of age, full grown, and, as he thought, incompetent to possess a fortune. After passing several years in the contest J. H. Bobb was successful, and judgment entered against Chas. Bobb for $100,000. The case was appealed and the decision of lower court affirmed, and is now in the Supreme Court. Meantime, the decision of the Circuit Court is being enforced, the appeal being without bond, and consequently without supersedeas.

The trustee assigned his property, and if this holds the estate will lose $100,000. The lawyers' fees and incidental expenses have been $50,000, and costs $16,000. Charles Bobb's expenses, directly and indirectly, have been about $150,000, making a total of $216,000 costs. There is in the Court-house a huge box called THE "BOBB COFFIN."

It was ordered by Judge Rombauer and is filled with the Bobb papers. It is not known exactly how many tons these papers weigh, but there are 6,000 pages of testimony, 3,000 pages of vouchers, and 10,000 pages of pleadings, exhibits and referee's reports. Besides this, there is a limitless quantity of verbal eloquence which has been flowing intermittingly during the past fifteen years, all of which had to be paid for. Inasmuch as the Supreme Court is far behind it may be years before the appeal in the case can be heard; and if the decision of the court below be reversed the heirs can then intelligently discuss the utter uselessness of a fortune of $500,000 with a lawsuit.

THE HAMMOND CASE.

The case of Hammond vs. the Lindell heirs for 240 acres of land south of Olive street, near the King's Highway, valued at $1,000,000, is well known to the old residents. Col. Hammond lived in St. Louis from 1806 to 1823, when his property, including the tract mentioned, was sold at Sheriff's sale and fell into the hands of the Lindells. Finally, in 1874, the heirs of Col. Hammond appeared and entered forty suits for the property. A test case was decided in favor of the defendants and the case was taken to the Supreme Court, pending which the last of the defendants in this case, Mr. Coleman, died. Nevertheless, the Supreme Court magnanimously overlooked this little circumstance, but rendered judgment against the dead man. Subsequently the plaintiffs came to the conclusion that a judgment against a dead man was not worth the paper it was written on, and had the judgment set aside. The test case didn't test, and now several dozens of the cases are scattered through the various courts. A few have been compromised. Probably $200,000 has been squandered in the litigation, and still they litigate.

CRIMINAL CASES.

In the Criminal Court the oldest cases are those of Charles F. Kring, beginning in 1875, and Matt. Lewis, 1876. Kring will go before the Supreme Court of the United States at the next session. A motion is now pending in the Criminal Court for an appeal in the case of Lewis.

PROBATE CASES.

In the Probate Court there are innumerable cases, going back to a time beyond which the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. These cases are contested litigations which, in many instances, have become inextricably confused through birth, death and marriage of parties interested.

MR. P. D. ETUE, Kansas City, Mo., one of the proprietors of the Commercial Indicator, says he knows the St. Jacobs Oil to be a most valuable remedy for rheumatism. Last winter Mr. Etue says he had this disease in his left shoulder. The pain was excessive at times and so severe while attacks lasted as to cause a strong desire to have it speedily eradicated. After vainly resorting to several remedies for relief, without success, he at last hit upon the Great German Remedy. He experienced decided and immediate relief from its use, and was entirely cured with the fourth application. Since then he has entertained a very high respect for the curative powers of the Oil. This respect is not at all lessened by its happy action in the case of his wife, who subsequently suffered with inflamatory rheumatism. She contracted the disease while visiting in Colorado. Upon arriving home the St. Jacobs Oil was used, in conjunction with prescriptions for internal administration, and materially aided in her restoration to health.

THE GRANITE BOOM.

How Baltimore Reconstructed Her Streets with Emphatic success.

Mr. J. T. Scharf, the author of a well-known history of Baltimore, who is engaged in preparing a similar work concerning this city, stated to a POST-DISPATCH reporter this morning that he had become much interested in the present agitation for granite reconstruction in St. Louis, because it reminded him of the agitation over the same subject which took place in Baltimore, several years ago. Said Mr. Scharf:

"About two years ago the citizens of Baltimore became worked up over the deplorable condition of their streets, particularly in the business part of the city. The streets had been paved many years ago with cobble-stones, but as time went on these became displaced, and the streets were full of hole and ruts, so that in some places they were practically impassable. Baltimore, unlike St. Louis, is very hilly, and had streets in Baltimore mean a great deal more than they do in St. Louis. As time went on the streets of the city were reconstructed with all the different paving materials known to engineers. In some places macadam pavement was put down, in others a pavement was made of the very best Georgia yellow pine; other streets were paved with asphaltum, cement, bois-d'arc, limestone, macadam; in short, with every material that was thought suitable for the purpose. Some of the sensible citizens had long advocated granite streets for the town, but the general run of the people preferred some cheaper material and succeeded in staving off the advocates of granite for a good while. At last, however, when wood, cement, asphaltum and all the other pavements that had been put down had worn out, the importance of having permanent roadways that would not give way almost with the facility of thistles became so vital that everybody woke up at once, just as they seem to have done in this city, to a just appreciation of the superiority of granite over every other kind of paving material. The matter was agitated everywhere, and citizens and city officials for once, at any rate, were of one mind on the same subject. The whole subject was thoroughly canvassed. The matter of the cost of reconstruction with granite was provided for in this way: The State Legislature passed an act authorizing the City of Baltimore to borrow $500,000, the proceeds to pay for the city's portion of the expense. The city's portion of the expense was one third, the citizens on either side of the street to be repaved paying each the other two-thirds. Work was commenced at once, and now Light street, Lombard street, Pratt street and Baltimore street, the principal business thoroughfares, and many other streets of Baltimore, are paved with granite. The blocks are of uniform size, eight inches long, four and a half wide and six deep. They are laid on a foundation of sand about eighteen inches deep, and are cemented by asphaltum, so that no water can seep through. A heavy rain washes the street as clean as a marble floor, but leaves the foundations perfectly dry. The blocks are not laid across the street in straight parallel lines, like the bricks of a house, but in triangular shape with the apex at about the center of the street. In this way the forming of ruts is prevented, because wagon tires cannot strike the divisions between the blocks, as would be the case were the blocks laid in straight lines. The granite blocks were procured from the quarries at Quincy, Maine, Cape Ann, Mass., and Woodstock, Md., on the line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. I can say, I think, with the unanimous concurrence of all the citizens of Baltimore, that the granite streets there are a perfect success, and that the citizens would not willingly give them up for any consideration. People talk about the intolerable noisiness of granite streets. It strikes me they don't know what they are talking about. These people ought to spend a day in Nassau street, New York. That's all."

Asked as to the cost of the granite streets in Baltimore, Mr. Schart stated he thought it was somewhat higher than the prices he had seen quoted for the St. Louis streets.

A WOMAN'S ARM.

The Cost of Breaking It Discussed Before a Jury To-Day.

In Judge Lindley's court to-day the trial docket is being disposed of as rapidly as possible prior to adjournment for the term. The assault damage case of Mr. and Mrs. Parker against William Vosmeyer was before the jury this morning. Colonel Slayback, representing the defendant, made an impassioned effort in behalf of his client, and W. C. Bentley closed the case for the plaintiff. This was an unpleasant controversy involving a broken arm. Mrs. Parker alleged that Mr. Vosmeyer, who had a mortgage on some furniture, came to claim it one morning in the absence of her husband. She desired the visitor to defer his claim until Mr. Parker put in an appearance. Some words followed and in the end it was alleged that Mrs. Parker received a blow from a club in the hands of Vosmeyer. The result was a broken arm.

TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—Whereas Edward H. Hymers, by his deed of trust dated July 15th, 1880, and recorded in book 636, page 273, of the St. Louis city records, did convey to Wm. C. Lange and August Leisse, as trustees, the following described real estate, lying in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, to wit:

1. Lot numbered sixteen (16) in block numbered three hundred and sixty-four (364) of said City of St. Louis and in Mary L. Tyler's addition, fronting twenty-five (25) feet on the south side of Chambers street, by a depth between parallel lines of 112 feet and 6 inches to an alley 15 feet wide, and bounded north by Chambers street, east by lot 17, south by alley and west by lot No 15, and being the same lot acquired by said Hymers by deed recorded in book 501, page 226, of the St. Louis city records.

2. Lot numbered twenty-three (23) of Lewis Bissell's first addition to St. Louis; said lot having a front of fifty-two (52) feet, more or less, on the eastern line of Bellefontaine road by a depth running between parallel lines eastwardly to a division line of said block, or addition, on which division line it has a front of fifty (50) feet; the depth is on the northern line of said lot 134 feet and 9 inches, and on its southern line 150 feet, more or less; being in block No. 1237 of this city, bounded north by lot 22, east by division line, south by lot 24, and west by Bellefontaine road, and being acquired by said Hymers by deed recorded in book 429, page 366, of the St. Louis records.

3. Lot numbered sixteen (16), of block numbered one (1) of Clark and Dillon's addition to Bremen, fronting forty-five (45) feet and eight (8) inches on the west line of North Ninth street and running with that width along Bremen avenue to an alley 20 feet wide, bounded north by lot No. 15, east by North Ninth street, south by street known as Bremen avenue, and west by alley, being in city block No. 1218, and being the same property acquired by said Hymers by deed recorded in book 501, page 141, of the St. Louis records.

4. The northern portion (60 feet front) of lot B of subdivision of Lambert Walter's estate in said city, as per plat accompanying the Commissioner's report in partition made amongst the heirs of Lambert Walter, recorded in book 302, page 328, of said St. Louis records; said lot having a front of sixty (60) feet on the east side of Broadway by a depth running eastwardly between parallel lines of 135 feet, more or less, to an alley 15 feet wide, and bounded north by lot No. A of said subdivision, west by Broadway; south by a strip of seven (7) feet and six (6) inches off of the southern side of lot B, formerly sold to Marshall Brotherton; east by alley; and being in city block 1225.

5. Lots numbered thirteen (13) to twenty (20), both inclusive, of block numbered three (3) of Yeatman and Holmes' addition to St. Louis, having an aggregate front of 211 8-12 feet on the west line of North Second street by a depth of 140 feet running westwardly to an alley 15 feet wide, on which alley said lots have a front of 186 feet more or less; bounded north by lot No. 21 of said block, east by North Second street, south by Lambert Walter's subdivision and west by said alley, and being part of the same property acquired by said Hymers as per deed recorded in book 460, page 306, of said records, and being also in city block 1225.

6. Lots twenty-four (24) to twenty-seven (27), both inclusive, in block three (3) last aforesaid and city block No. 1225, having a front in an aggregate of one hundred (100) feet on the west line of North Second street by 140 feet along Angelica street to an alley 15 feet wide, and being bounded north by Angelica street, east by Second street, south by lot No. 23 and west by said alley, and being also acquired by said Hymers by deed last aforesaid and partly by trustee's deed, recorded in book 594, page 297 of said records.

7. Lots numbered twenty-two (22), twenty-three (23), twenty-four (24), of block No. four (4) of Buschmann's addition to St. Louis, having an aggregate front of seventy-five (75) feet on the north line of Augusta street by a depth of 137 feet and 8½ inches, running northwardly to an alley 20 feet wide; bounded north by said alley, east by lot No. 21, south by Augusta street and west by a street 60 feet wide, being in city block No. 2503, and the same property acquired by said Hymers by deed recorded in book 589, page 368, of the St. Louis records.

8. Lot numbered thirteen (13) of block numbered one (1) of Thomas A. Walker's addition to Bremen, having a front of twenty-five (25) feet on the east line of North Seventeenth street by a depth running eastwardly between parallel lines 143 feet to an alley 15 feet wide, and being bounded north by lot No 12, east by alley, south by lot No. 14, and west by Seventeenth street, being in city block 2402, and being the same property acquired by said Hymers by trustee's deed recorded in book 589, page 368, of the St. Louis records.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas, Hampton L. Lee and Virginia M., his wife, by their deed of trust dated dated June 15, 1878, and recorded in book 592, page 366, conveyed to the undersigned the following described lots and parcels of ground, situated in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri:

First. A lot of ground in block No. 527 of said city, beginning at a point in the east line of Sixteenth street thirty-five feet south of the intersection of said east line of Sixteenth street with the south line of Orange street, and running thence south with said east line of Sixteenth street thirty-five feet, thence east and parallel with Orange street thirty-four feet, thence northwardly and parallel with said Sixteenth street thirty-five feet, and thence westwardly and parallel with said Orange street thirty-four feet to the point of beginning.

Second. A lot in block 648 of said city and in Collin's Western Addition to said city, beginning at a point in the south line of West Brooklyn street, seventy-three feet east of the east line of Eleventh street, and running thence eastwardly along said south line of West Brooklyn street twenty feet, thence southwardly parallel to Eleventh street seventy-six feet six inches, more or less, to the north line of Moore's Addition in said block thence westwardly with the north line of said addition twenty feet and thence northwardly to the same parallel as before, seventy-six feet six inches more or less to the point of beginning.

Third. A lot of ground in block No. 1727 of said city and in Fulton's Addition thereto: beginning at the intersection of the west line of Jefferson avenue with the south line of Gamble avenue and running thence southwardly with said west line of Jefferson avenue fifty-six feet three inches; thence westwardly parallel with Gamble avenue one hundred and twenty-eight feet more or less to the east line of an alley fifteen feet wide; thence northwardly along the east line of said alley fifty-six feet three inches to the south line of Gamble avenue, and thence eastwardly along said south line of Gamble avenue one hundred and thirty-nine feet six inches to the place of beginning.

Fourth. A lot of ground in block No. 2133 of said city, containing a front of fifty feet on the north line of Lafayette avenue by a depth northwardly of one hundred and thirty-six feet three inches to the center line of said block, and being known as lot No. 4 of George Maguire's subdivision of the southwest quarter of block No. 6 of St. Louis Commons, as per plat of record in the St. Louis City Recorder's Office.

Fifth. A tract or parcel of land in the county of St. Louis, State of Missouri, containing ten and 89-100 arpens, lying in the Commons of Carondelet, south of the River Des Peres, andjoeing lot No. 116, as designated on the plat of subdivision made under order of the Board of Trustees of the town of Carondelet.

And whereas said conveyance was in trust to secure the payment of certain notes therein specified, and whereas default has been made in the payment in full of the principal note therein described; now, therefore, at the request of the legal holder of said note and under the provisions of said deed of trust, I, the undersigned trustee, will offer said property for sale at public vendue, to the highest bidder, for cash, at the east front door of the Court-house, in the city of St. Louis, Mo., between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 12TH, 1882,

for the purposes of said trust.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas William G. Williamson and Margaret J. Williamson, his wife, by their certain deed of trust dated the 7th day of June, 1872 and recorded in the Recorder's office of the then county (now city) of St. Louis, in book 453, at page 338, did convey to the undersigned trustee the following described real estate, situate, lying and being in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, to-wit: A lot or parcel of ground having a front of fifty feet on the north line of St. Ferdinand street by a depth of one hundred and thirty-four feet to a fifteen-foot alley, commencing at a point three hundred and sixty feet from the northeast corner of Taylor avenue and St. Ferdinand street, and running east on the north line of St. Ferdinand street fifty (50) feet; thence north one hundred and thirty-four (134) feet to an alley fifteen feet wide; thence west along the south line of said alley fifty (50) feet, thence south one hundred and thirty-four (134) feet to the place of beginning; bounded south by St. Ferdinand street, east by property of said third party to said deed of trust, north by alley, and west by property of Mrs. Cowell; which deed of trust was made and delivered to secure the payment of certain notes therein described; and whereas heretofore, on the 22d day of September, 1881, there having been a default in the payment of said notes, the undersigned, at the request of the legal holders of said notes, gave notice in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that he would thereafter, on the 17th day of October, A. D. 1881, sell said property for the purposes of said trust: and whereas the undersigned did on said 17th day of October, 1881, proceed to sell said property in pursuance of the notice so given, and did make, execute and deliver a deed to John McDonough, which deed is recorded in said Recorder's office in book 664, page 456.

And whereas in said notice of sale there was a material error in the description of the property conveyed by said deed of trust, and said sale was not effectual to pass title to the property above and in said deed of trust described.

Now, therefore, default in the payment of said notes still continuing, the undersigned, at the request of the legal holder thereof, for the purpose of carrying out the said trust according to its true intent and meaning, will, in pursuance of the provisions of said deed of trust, proceed to sell the property hereinbefore described, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the eastern front door of the Court-house, in the city of St. Louis, Missouri, for cash, on for the purposes mentioned in said deed.

FRIDAY, THE 14TH DAY OF APRIL, 1882,

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis—ss-
In the Circuit Court, City of St. Louis.
February Term, 1882.
Saturday, March 4, 1882.
Frank P. Brown vs. Maud L. Brown

It appearing from the petition of plaintiff in this cause that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Missouri, therefore, on motion of said plaintiff by his attorney,

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against her, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between said plaintiff and defendant, on the ground that defendant has absented herself without reasonable cause from plaintiff for the space of one year and more next before the filing of said petition, and that, since her marriage with plaintiff, defendant has committed adultery.

And unless she appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the City of St. Louis on the first Monday of June next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against her as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the City of St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court City of St. Louis, this 6th day of March, 1882.
